Fortune Cookie Friends

浙江省衢州第一中学 徐荣仙

Mei Mei frowned as she helped her mother and father set out the cooking supplies in the shiny steel kitchen. Her family had just moved here from San Francisco, having bought a small restaurant, which was set to open in the next few days.

“Moving here was a stupid idea. I have lost all my friends in San Francisco. What should I do now?” Mei Mei grumbled, mostly to herself.

“What’s that?” Her mother asked, opening a box and lifting out several pots and a wok.

“Nothing,” Mei Mei mumbled. The girl had been complaining about the move, but her parents had made the decision and were now too busy getting ready for the grand opening to listen to her complaints.

The first few days at her new school hadn’t been easy, either. She found it hard to talk to people she didn’t know, and it seemed like the students hadn’t even noticed her. Mei Mei sighed and got back to washing dishes.

On the day of the grand opening, Mei Mei’s parents were all smiles, welcoming customers into the restaurant, brightly decorated in gold and red. Even Mei Mei was in a good mood as she rushed around, seating guests, handing out menus, and pouring tall glasses of water. This was a big day for her family.

At one of the tables sat a family with two daughters who were about Mei Mei’s age. As she filled their glasses, Mei Mei realized the twins were in her class. Mei Mei ducked her head down so her long hair covered her face, and she turned away from the table.

Mei Mei’s mother found her soon after, in the kitchen loading the dishwasher.

“Honey, what are you doing back here? We need you out front with the customers.”

Paragraph1:

“Mom, I don’t want to be out there!”

Paragraph2:

Mei Mei put a handful of cookies into a small plate and left the kitchen.

读 后 续 写

【文章大意】 梅梅不愿意搬到新的地方，因为这里同学、朋友都不熟悉。父母在新的城市开一个小饭店，梅梅非常不乐意地在店里帮忙。开业那天，本来心情较好的她突然发现她的同学也来她爸妈的饭店吃饭，于是她不想去服务。后来在妈妈的鼓励下她改变了想法，端起盘子向同学走去。

【写作指导】 Paragraph1的开头是“妈妈，我不想去外面餐厅”。结合上文的信息，我们得知，梅梅本来对于搬到新的城市心里就不舒服，现在又发现同学出现在她帮忙的地方。由此可推测，此刻她的心情是矛盾的，心里非常不情愿。而根据下文第二段的段首我们得知，在这中间妈妈和梅梅肯定进行了积极的交流，导致梅梅改变原来的不愿意的情绪。

情感线索：抵触→矛盾→接受

【写作指导】 Paragraph2的开头是“梅梅把一些饼干放在小碟子里，然后离开厨房”。结合上文说明她已经被妈妈说服了。那么接下来描写的是梅梅离开厨房时的忐忑，鼓足勇气向同学走去，以及后来见面时的心理动态或者场景描写。

情感线索：忐忑→斗争→淡定→惊喜（开心）

Tip3: Pay attention to the tone

Avoid being too sad or sacred

The twins are not tigers.

"Mom, I don't want to be out there!" Overwhelmed with depression, Mei Mei couldn't imagine ~~that~~ how will her classmates play tricks on her. She sat on the floor, her body was frozen with fear. At the moment, her mother wrapped around her neck, only to find tears welling up in her eyes, and rolling down her cheeks. "Mom, my classmates, the twins and their parents..." The next moment, Mei Mei's mother realized what was happening. "Oh, my honey! You are the way that you are! Never take other's strange sharp comments into consideration. Be courageous! Why don't you prepare some presents for your classmates? Let's go for it!"

Tip4: Pay attention to the cohesion

点评:

1. 根据第二段的段首，第一段MeiMei应该没有离开厨房，她在厨房里徘徊，犹豫，而该篇第一段母亲没有给女儿思考的空间，也没有和女儿进行沟通，直接把她推了出去。这两个地方都与文章的整体谋篇布局衔接不够。
2. 根据上文MeiMei的心理动态，她对她同学的位置是非常清晰的，不会出现不知不觉走到那个位置，此处衔接也欠妥。

to help this family to do something. Mother pushed Mei Mei out of the kitchen and suddenly called away by a new customers. Just at that time, the table with her classmates needed to pour water. Mei Mei signed, not held back her unwilling face, and marched to the table which she didn't realize. "Mei Mei?" one of the twins asked, "is this your family's restaurant? The food is so good!" Surprisingly, Mei Mei answered, "Yes, I love my father's food, and I always learn to cook some." "Wow, do I have ~~some~~ the honor to try some?"

"It may ^{not} be ^a bad idea to move," murmured Mei Mei. Sometimes we should perform to our best to adapt ^{to} the world. Eventually, you may find something surprising and brand-new.

点评:

1. 该篇文章在呼应和布局上比较到位。第一段塑造了一个智慧的母亲的形象。当MeiMei诉说不能适应新的环境的时候母亲马上发现问题并借机培养MeiMei的适应环境的能力。
2. 第二段，同学的热情，MeiMei的小尴尬，得到同学认可的小喜悦都自然的呈现在读者面前。以及作者在最后又画龙点睛的利用brand-new和第一段进行呼应。使文章的整个线条非常流畅，舒服。

点评：该篇文章在构思结尾的使用也注意到了与第一段进行一个简单的呼应，把小作者的那种心理变化过程非常巧妙的串联在一起。

The Original Ending of “Fortune Cookie Friends”
by RV Staff Writer J.C.

“Mom, I don’t want to be out there. There are kids from school!”

“So?” her mother asked. “That’s good! Go take them some fortune cookies and say hello!” She clucked her tongue disapprovingly at Mei Mei and disappeared out of the kitchen.

Mei Mei frowned. She grabbed a handful of fortune cookies that they gave out after every meal, but first she tore open a wrapper and cracked a cookie open for herself. She popped a sweet, crunchy piece in her mouth, and absently read the paper fortune it held.

“Many friends are found with a single smile,” it read.

Mei Mei put a handful of cookies into a small tray and left the kitchen.

Mustering up her courage, Mei Mei approached the table where the twins and their parents were finishing their meal. She placed the cookies down, and bravely looked the girls in the eyes. She smiled.

“Thanks so much for coming to our restaurant! I hope you liked everything,” Mei Mei said.

“Ooh, fortune cookies, I love these!” One of the girls exclaimed, reaching for the tray.

The other sister looked closely at Mei Mei. Then her eyes lit up with recognition.

“Hey! You’re that new girl in our class, right? Isn’t your name Mei Mei?”

Sampes from students

"Mom, I don't want to be out there!" Mei Mei shouted at her mother in a high voice. "What's up, dear?" Her mother asked softly, hugging Mei Mei gently, ~~clap~~plating her back slightly. On the verge of tears, Mei Mei told her mother that it would be ashamed of her if her new classmates — the twins recognized her. To her surprise, her mother said, "Dear, escaping from trouble is not a good way for a person who should be brave. Maybe it ~~s~~ won't be as terrible as you think. Now, have your plate filled with cookies and be confident. Only truth will tell."

Mei Mei put a handful of cookies into a small plate and left the kitchen. The closer she approached the table, the more serious she was. Thinking of mother's encouragement, Mei Mei didn't duck her head down ~~or~~ to let the hair cover face. When she was setting the plate, ~~the~~ ^{elder} sister noticed her face and found Mei Mei was her new classmate. Simultaneously, Mei Mei said a friendly "hello" to the twins with a big smile, which started her first friendship in this new city.

"Mom, I don't want to be out there!" Frowning, Mei Mei lowered her head and tried to fight back the sorrow. No sooner had her mother noticed her low mood than her mother asked the reason with patience, which disappeared many days ago. Mei Mei explained that she did not know how to communicate with classmates, especially the twins who were sitting in the resaurant now. Ruffling Mei Mei's hair, her mother calm comforted her with soft voice that "why don't you share the cookies, made by yourself, with them." The sorrowful face cracked and a bright smile appeared.

Mei Mei put a handful of cookies into a small plate and left the kitchen. So nervous was she that she could not contain her trembling hands. Stepping towards the twins straight, Mei Mei forced a smile. "Hey, do you want to try some cookies?" said she, with her heart beating wildly. Seconds passed, but it seemed as if cen hours had passed. "Of course" the twins answered with merry voice. They shared the cookies and had a g brilliant time. Mei Mei's heart was brimful with happiness and satisfactory.

Thank You!
