

2019 学年第二学期温州新力量联盟期中联考

高二年级英语学科 参考答案

一：听力 1-20: BCACB AABAC ABABC BCAAB

二：阅读理解 21-30: CCB DBA CBDA

三：七选五 31-35: DEFGC

四：完形填空 36-55: ADDBC ABCCB AADDB BCADC

五：语法填空

56. admirable 57. published 58. that 59. on 60. the

61. deliberately 62. killing 63. guilty 64. accusation 65. but

六：应用文

(按浙江省高考英语试题应用文评分标准分档打分)

参考范文一(83 words):

Dear Jim,

I'm sorry to learn that more and more Americans are suffering from COVID-19. Don't worry. I will share with you some tips on prevention.

First, don't get together and try your best not to go out. Second, wear a mask if going out and remember to wash your hands frequently. Third, do some exercise indoors, which will build up your body to fight against the virus.

I hope my ways are of some help to you. Best wishes.

Yours,

Li Hua

参考范文二(91 words):

Dear Jim,

Sorry to know that COVID-19 is spreading rapidly in America. Here I am writing to give you some suggestions to prevent yourself from being infected.

Firstly, don't gather with friends and stay indoors to avoid unnecessary contact. Secondly, it's necessary to wear a face mask when you go out and wash hands frequently to protect yourself from the scattered virus. Besides, it's of vital importance to exercise more to strengthen your body, boosting the immune system.

I hope these suggestions are helpful to you. Best wishes.

Yours,

Li Hua

参考范文三(100 words):

Dear Jim,

I'm sorry to learn that an increasing number of Americans are suffering from COVID-19. I'm worried about you. But don't panic. Here are some suggestions to prevent infection.

Firstly, don't get together and try to go out less often as the virus spreads mainly from person to person. Besides, wear a mask when out and wash hands more frequently since exposed directly to the virus, you are more likely to get infected. Finally, proper indoor exercise is necessary, which will improve your immunity against virus.

I hope my suggestions are of some help. Best wishes.

Yours,
Li Hua

七：读后续写

(按浙江省高考英语试题读后续写评分标准分档打分)

参考范文一：

She stood by the window, watching. The postman turned round the corner on his bike. Her heart beat fast. Johnnie had seen him too and ran to the bike. After a while Johnnie ran up and knocked at her door. “Granny, granny,” he shouted, “I’ve got your post.” He gave her four envelopes. Three were un-sealed cards from old friends. The fourth was sealed in Myra’s writing. “No parcel, Johnnie?” “No, granny.” Maybe the parcel was too large to come by letter post. That was it. It would come later by parcel post. She must be patient. (91words)

Almost unwillingly, she tore the envelope open. Folded in the card was a piece of paper. Written on the card was a message under the printed Happy Birthday -- Buy yourself something nice with the cheque, Myra and Harold. The cheque fluttered to the floor like a bird with a broken wing. Slowly the old lady bent to pick it up. Her present, her lovely present. With trembling fingers she tore it into little pieces. (68words)

参考范文二：

She stood by the window, watching. The street had just come to life, still empty. Her legs only allowed her to stand for a while. She knew she’d better sit and wait patiently. But today was her birthday, she could be a little capricious. As her mind was wandering, the postman came into her sight. Johnnie ran up and it seemed that he was handed something. The next minute, an envelope was brought up to her. It was from Myra. “Is it the present?” asked Johnnie. She forced a smile, not knowing what to answer. (89words)

Almost unwillingly, she tore the envelope open. It was a birthday card, on which Myra wished her a happy birthday and apologized for not being with her. Instantly tears welled up and the card slipped onto the floor. “Granny, there is another line at the bottom.” She cast a glance. “We are to arrive at 2 p.m., millions of love.” Overcome with a mixture of relief and joy, she couldn’t hold back tears. This was definitely the best present she had ever expected. (76 words)

听力原文：

Text 1:

W: Hi, Tom. Long time no see! Are you still a teacher?

M: Not any more. I taught for five years, then I worked as a journalist, but now I’m an editor.

Text 2:

M: I’m keen on American TV series. What is your hobby, Linda? W:

Well, although I read a lot, what I love best is to chat on WeChat.

Text 3:

W: Are you going the Shelley’s barbecue?

M: It’s on June 30th, isn’t it? I can’t. We’re on holiday then.

W: No, it’s on the 13th. Shelley told me yesterday. Which day are you going away?

M: We're leaving on the 23rd.

Text 4:

M: It's very cold in here. I'm going to turn the heater on to warm this place up a little.

W: Why do you think I'm drinking hot chocolate? Here, take this blanket. The heater isn't working right now.

Text 5:

M: Hello.

W: Hello, Edmund. It's Cindy here. I'm phoning about the report.

M: But you told me the deadline was next week.

W: Yes, but the boss says it's a rush job. She wants it now.

Text 6:

W: Excuse me. I'm afraid I may have lost my way. I need to find the way back to the Beach Hotel.

M: The Beach Hotel? It's quite a long way from here. Do you know the subway station?

W: No, I'm a tourist. I got here only yesterday.

M: Well, in that case, I'd advise you to take a taxi. You want me to call a taxi for you?

W: Yes. Thank you very much.

M: My pleasure.

Text 7:

M: Good evening, Susan. I'm sorry to be late.

W: It's OK. I'm glad you managed to get here. Did you have any problems finding the way?

M: Oh, yes. I couldn't find your house. I mean, I didn't quite remember the number of your house.

W: Sorry to hear that. Maybe I didn't make myself clear to you.

M: No, it was all my fault. I wrote down your address in my notebook, but I forgot to bring it along.

W: All right. Come in and sit down. Want something to drink?

M: Well, just some water, please. Iced water would be better.

Text 8:

W: Hello?

M: Penny? Hey, it's Ted.

W: Hi, Ted. What's up?

M: Well, my computer has crashed again and I can't get it to start.

W: Sorry to hear that. Do you want me to come over and try to help you fix it?

M: No, I've decided to get a new one. I'm going to try a place downtown tomorrow. Can you come with me?

W: Sorry, but I can't. I've got class. But listen. I think my brother can go with you. He knows everything about computers and can help you make a good choice.

M: That'd be great.

W: What are you looking for?

M: Something small...portable, oh, and affordable, of course.

W: OK. I'll leave a message with my brother.

M: Thanks a lot, Penny. Tell him I'll call him around eight tonight. What's his number again?

Text 9:

W: Would you like to go to the National Gallery of Modern Art sometime this week?

M: Sounds good. Is there any special exhibition going on at the moment?

W: Yes. They are showing Vincent van Gogh's paintings in the main gallery.

M: Really? That's super cool! How long will this exhibition last?

W: Two weeks. All the paintings are borrowed from the Van Gogh Museum in Holland.

M: Nice. I wish it could last longer.

W: Me too. But this special exhibition is actually part of a Southern Europe tour. So after being shown here in Italy, these paintings will go to Greece, Spain, then Portugal before going back to Holland.

M: So how long is the entire tour?

W: Eight weeks. The exhibitions in Greece and Spain will be four weeks long.

M: OK. So when should we go?

W: I was thinking this Saturday, but the museum must be very crowded over the weekend.

M: How about Friday? I don't have any class on Friday.

W: Sure. Though I do have two classes in the morning. So let's go in the afternoon.

M: All right. Then I will work on my paper in the school library. Meet there at noon?

W: OK.

Text 10:

W: Dreams can come true! Jonathan Tingles lived in a small town in Texas and life wasn't easy for him. The town was too quiet and boring for him. There were few cafes and shops, and there weren't any cinemas or department stores. Jonathan wanted to leave but he never had enough money to do so. He worked as a shop assistant in a small bookshop. It was a part-time job, so he didn't get much money. When he had a little extra money, he spent it on travel magazines. He loved travel books too, but they were too expensive for him to buy. One day, he read about a short story competition in a magazine. As soon as he read it, he decided to take part. The prize was $5000. Jonathan had a lot of ideas and he wrote a very interesting story. And guess what? He won! He bought a car with the money and moved to Los Angeles to start a new life. Today, Jonathan is a well-known writer. He has already written two books and he's writing another one at the moment. He hasn't been back to his hometown since the day he left.