Last Friday, aiming to enrich students' campus life, our school organized an Association Culture Festival themed Blossom of Youth, which turned out to be a great success.

As scheduled, this festival kicked off in the school auditorium at 3 p. m. , lasting for 2 hours. In the beginning, members from the Singing and Dancing Club staged a show named Song of Youth , which made all the audience present in high spirits. After that, other clubs took turns to demonstrate their well-prepared performances, including poem recitation, painting, martial arts, etc. What highlighted the whole event was that the Craft Club invited all the participants to do the hands-on work, like postcard making, DIY bags, etc.

This activity received high praise from teachers and students, as it not only provided a platform for students to show their talents, but also motivated more students to participate in the extra-curricular activities.

第二节

【参考范文】

On the tag were the letters that read, “To Dad, Love Christy”. Seeing her joy replaced by a look of total embarrassment and humiliation, I was seized by a strong sense of regret and pain. She slowly lowered her head down, seemingly praying that nobody would discover whom the gift came from. Without hesitation, I knelt down and embraced Christy tightly, trying to take back those words. I explained I had thought it was from Mom, but since it came from her, that made it different. However, no matter what I said, it could hardly remove the disappointment in her eyes and hurt in her heart. Confronted with the embarrassing situation, I was at a loss what to do.

Staring at the gift, I suddenly thought of a way to cheer her up. I took that toy airplane in my hand, turned on its switch and flew the plane. At the sight of the flying plane, I yelled with excitement, which amused other children who eagerly asked for a try. My eyes resting on Christy, I deliberately ignored their enthusiasm, flying the plane around her. “Let me try it first!” It wasn’t long before Christy believed it was really a charming gift and grabbed for the plane, a big smile radiating from her lightened face. From then on, I kept the little plane as a reminder of my girl’s love and also, the power of words.

W: I will do it in five minutes once this show finishes. (1)

M: Do it now or you’ll have neither TV nor games for a week.

Text 2

W: What movies are being shown tonight?

M: I don’t know. I have been working out in the gym a lot recently. Once in a while I play golf. I can check on the website for a schedule.

W: That’s a great idea. I haven’t watched a good movie in ages. (2)

Text 3

M: Did you see where I left my glasses?

W: I don’t think so... Have you checked the bathroom? Keep looking.

M: It’s no use. I’ve looked absolutely everywhere. They must have disappeared. (3)

Text 4

W: Honey, remember your doctor’s appointment later.

M: I set an alarm for it when I made it on Monday. I was lucky I could get one the next day. (4) Usually you have to wait at least three days.

Text 5

W: Would anyone like to go to the bathroom? This will be your last chance before our next tour. (5)

M: I need to go. Where is it?

W: Walk down the passage in the building, take the first left and you should see a sign for the toilet.

Text 6

W: Excuse me, do you have anything to eat in here? (6) Like snacks, drinks, that kind of stuff?

M: I'm sorry ma'am, but we do have some souvenir water bottles for only two dollars. If you purchase one of our twenty-dollar shirts, we'll give you one water bottle for free! (6)

W: I was looking for something to bring back from my travels...how much are these cups?

M: Ten dollars each. And the key chains beside them are five dollars each.

M: Enjoy your free water bottle!

Text 8

W: Want to buy an exercise bike?

M: No, thanks. I have one. Why are you selling yours? It was expensive, wasn't it?

W: It was—but I never use it. When I get home from work, the last thing I feel like doing is going on an exercise bike.

M: So what do you do to keep fit?

W: Nothing really. I just eat food and watch TV.

M: You'll get fat and unfit if you carry on like that. (12)

W: It's true. I am putting on a few pounds. (12) But look at you, the same weight as ever.

M: I've actually lost some—and so should you. You were always very active.

W: You're making me feel ashamed. I did enjoy it when we played badminton together.

M: I go running and cycling these days—but I'll play badminton with you if you like. (13)

W: Yes...though I probably won't be very good.

M: Is tomorrow OK for you, after we finish here at the office? (11) I'll book a place right away. (13)

W: That's fine. (13)

Text 9

M: Can you believe this is our last summer before we graduate?

W: I know. We have to make some real tough decisions soon. Have you given any thought to your future?

M: My father would like to pass the family business on to me. My grandfather started it, and he made my dad really admire him.

W: That is understandable. My family has always been involved in education, and they're trying to convince me to do the same. I want to be a doctor, though. (14)

M: You should follow your dreams. My brother is an excellent engineer. He's my hero. (15)

W: So what's yours? Is there anything that excites you?

M: I've lived in America my whole life. I've seen parts of Canada, but it's not that different. I'd love to travel to France, Spain, Italy, or Germany... (16)

W: Cool! I grew up in Asia, and I had the chance to travel through several different countries.

M: I need to have money before I do that, though. That's why I'm getting a job this summer. Are you working, too? (17)

W: I thought about it, but I decided to take some classes over the summer. (17) I want to get a head start on my studies.

M: It sounds like we'll both be busy. I hope we can still hang out.

W: Of course. I always make time for my friends.

Text 10

Good morning, everyone. Welcome to your first weekend painting class. My name is George and I will be your teacher for the next 10 weeks. Do not worry if this is your first time painting or even if this is your first time doing anything artistic. This course is designed to teach you the basics of drawing and painting. I have been running this course for three years and before that I was a college tutor at Hereford College of Arts. (18) In the first two weeks, you will get familiar with some very important drawing techniques as well as understand how to use the equipment. On week three, I will start giving you weekly homework so you can improve outside of these classes. It's entirely your choice to complete the homework or not. It is not a course requirement, but obviously, it will really help you progress. After week six, you'll be asked to plan a final piece of work. This artwork will require a lot of experimentation. (19) After the 10th week, we will hold an exhibition at a local gallery where you'll be able to invite friends and family to attend. (20)
