Dear teachers and fellow students,

Welcome to our "Bringing Cultural Relics to Life" event. As president of the Student Union, I'm honored to have the opportunity to open this wonderful occasion.

The purpose of this event is to encourage everyone to explore the history and culture behind the artifacts and appreciate their beauty. There will be an exhibition featuring various cultural artifacts brought by students which have been passed down through their families. Also, we will be holding a workshop where students are encouraged to create their own cultural artifacts that look like cultural relics in ancient times.

Thank you for your attendance, and I wish you all a meaningful and enjoyable experience.

Denny held my hand, but then my turn came. Turning to Denny and letting go of his hand, I put my finger to my lips and stood up, leaving him sitting there in the front row. I stepped up on to the small stage and the bench loomed before me. Slowly, I sat down. "My childhood dream will come true." I murmured to myself and started to play. All the practice and effort I put in for six months paid off. My fingers danced over black and white keys as if they had a mind of their own. Suddenly, I heard quiet snickering from the audience.

A small body climbed onto the piano bench next to me. It's Denny! My body almost froze but I kept right on playing. I heard tinkling on the high keys. Almost over, I thought: last phrase, last measure, and last note. Whew! I glanced over at Denny plinking. "OK, we're done," I told him. Taking my hand, he slid off the bench. We stood at the front of the platform, and I leaned down. "Bow with me," I whispered. We bowed, and the class applauded. Someone in the back stood up. Before long, others joined her. Together with my little boy, I finished the recital by receiving a standing ovation.
