Robert Spring, a 19th century forger (伪造者), was so good at his profession that he was able to make his living for 15 years by selling false signatures of famous Americans. Spring was born in England in 1838 and arrived in Philadelphia in 1858 to open a bookstore. At first he prospered(繁荣)by selling his small but genuine collection of early US autographs (亲笔签名). Discovering his ability at copying handwriting he began imitating the signatures of George Washington and Benjamin Franklin and writing them on the title pages of old books. To lessen the chance of detection (被发现). He sent his forgeries to England and Canada for sale, Forgers have a hard time selling products. A forger cannot approach a respectable buyer but must deal with people who don't have much knowledge in the field. Forgers have many ways of making their works look real. For example, they buy old books and use the aged paper of the title page, and they can treat paper and ink with chemicals.

In Spring's time, right after the Civil War, Britain was still fond of the southern states, so Spring invented a respectable young lady known as Miss Fanny Jackson, the only daughter of General "Stonewall" Jackson. For several years Miss Fanny's financial problems forced her to sell a great number of letters and manuscripts (手稿) belonging to her famous father. Spring had to work very hard to satisfy the demand. However, all this activity did not prevent Spring from dying in poverty, leaving sharp-eyed experts the difficult task of separating his forgeries from the originals.

24. Robert Spring spent 15 years _____.
- A. running a bookstore in Philadelphia B. as owners of old books
- C. selling real signatures of famous Americans D. as a forger
25. Why did Spring sell his false autographs in England and Canada?
- A. There was less chance that his forgeries would be discovered there.
- B. The prices were much higher in England and Canada.
- C. There was a greater demand there than in America.
- D. Britain was Spring's birthplace.
26. After the Civil War there was a great demand in Britain for _____
- A. Civil War battle plans B. southern manuscripts and letters
- C. the signatures of George Washington and Ben Franklin D. southern money
27. Which of the following about Miss Fanny Jackson is TRUE?
- A. She was Robert Spring's customer.
- B. She was an imaginary person created by Spring.
- C. She was a little-known girl who sold her father's papers to make money.
- D. She was the only daughter of General Stonewall Jackson.

C

Have you ever dreamed of visiting a planet in the Milk Way (银河系)? While the trip sounds exciting, it would take years and years to reach your destination. So in the future, bedtime for astronauts may be more than a few hours of regular shut-eye. They would have to sleep for years.

European researchers are now conducting hibernation(冬眠) experiments. The study may help them understand whether humans could ever sleep through the years it would take for a spaceflight to distant planets. "If there was an effective technology, it could make deep-space travel a reality," said Mark Ayre of the European Space Agency last month.

What seems like science fiction is not completely unlikely. Researchers have been able to use chemicals to put living cells into a sleep-like state. They have now moved on to small, non-hibernating mammals like rats.

A major challenge is the fact that cells can be very simple systems, whereas body organs are far more complex. "It's like moving from a simple Apple computer to a supercomputer," said Marco Biggiogera, a hibernation researcher at Italy's University of Pavia. Just like bears and frogs, the hibernation of human beings would cause a person's metabolism (新陈代谢) to lower so they would need less energy.

Medical research, however, is just half of a spaceflight hibernation system. There is the challenge of designing a suitable protective shelter(栖身所). Such a shelter would provide the proper environment for hibernation, such as the proper temperature. It would also have to monitor (监控) life functions and serve the physiological needs of the hibernator.

According to Ayre, the six-person human Outer Planets Exploration Mission to Jupiter's moon (木星的卫星), Callisto, could be an opportunity to use human hibernation. The mission aims to send six humans on a five-year flight to Callisto, where they will spend 30 days, in 2045.

28. According to the article, the hibernation research _____.

- | | |
|--------------------------------------|--------------------------------|
| A. is just an idea | B. is always a science fiction |
| C. has already finished successfully | D. has made some progress |

29. There are _____ major challenges facing scientists who study hibernation.

- | | | | |
|--------|----------|---------|---------|
| A. two | B. three | C. four | D. five |
|--------|----------|---------|---------|

30. The first use of the hibernation technology _____ the six-person human Outer Planets Exploration Mission to Jupiter's moon Callisto.

- A. must he B. has been planned for C. is certain to be D. may be

31. What is the best title for the article?

- A. Hibernation Study for Space Travel B. Welcome to Our Space Travel
C. To Hibernate, to Live Longer D. Welcome to Milk Way

D

Call it a mobility system or a wheelchair—it can be seen at the Tokyo airport moving on its own. It is helping with social distancing while fighting the spread of the coronavirus. It also helps older passengers and those who otherwise need assistance walking the last few steps to the boarding gate.

The mobility system seats one person and runs on its own without hitting anything. It has a pre-programmed path of about 600 meters at Tokyo's Haneda International Airport. It was shown on Monday by WHILL, the company behind the technology.

WHILL Chief Executive Satoshi Sugie said robotics and self-driving technology reduce the need for a human at the wheel. They are good for these times of "living with" coronavirus. The ride lasts several minutes. It travels from the security area to the boarding gate at a speed of 3.5 kilometers per hour. But many people hope the technology can help in other places, such as hospitals or parks. The technology uses sensors and cameras to see a clear path and avoid hitting those walking toward it. It could also help Japan free up laborers. Japan, like many other nations, suffers from a labor shortage. The technology could free a worker to do another job.

Tests have been carried out at several airports since last year, including John F. Kennedy International Airport in New York. The company hopes to put it in airports around the world.

The person on the machine can start or stop it through a simple controller. It runs on batteries and is programmed to return to where it started when its passenger gets off. Anyone needing help walking long distances can use it at Terminal One at Haneda airport. It is called the “last-mile mobility”, says WHILL.

32. What do we know about the mobility system?

- A. It can seat more than one person.
B. It runs with the assistance of a controller.
C. It helps older passengers to the boarding gate.

D. It has a flexible path of about 600 meters.

33. What does “They” in Paragraph 3 refer to?

A. Humans at the wheel.

B. The needs for human beings.

C. These times of "living with" coronavirus. D. Robotics and self-driving technology.

34. What plays an essential part in the technology?

A. Sensors and cameras.

B. The speed of the machine.

C. The path of the ride.

D. The distance of the ride.

35. What can we infer from the last two paragraphs?

A. The system runs completely on its own.

B. The system has been put into use in the US.

C. WHILL will continue to test the system in airports worldwide.

D. The system is controlled by a passenger to return to the start.

Ways to improve your mental health in 2020

Looking on the bright side of life really is beneficial. Optimists（乐观者） have a less chance of having a heart attack or stroke(中风), a bigger chance of a healthy and long life. However, being an optimist doesn't mean you ignore the stress of daily life. 36. How to do that?

● Practice optimism

Faced with a challenge, optimists more often see it as temporary(临时的) or even positive, allowing themselves to learn and grow. 37. Imagining yourself with all of your problems solved in a future may work.

● 38

Studies have shown putting the well-being of others before our own without expecting anything in return is useful. Even if you have little time to offer, just the act of giving has been shown to improve our health, possibly by temporarily reducing our sense of pain.

- Be grateful

Being thankful protects us against anxiety and depression and boosts(增加) optimism.____ 39 _____. Before going to bed, write down any positive experience you had that day, however small.

- Improve your social connections

Good relationships keep us happier and healthier.____ 40 _____. Instead, it's the quality of the relationship that matters. 假如你是李华，请你写一封邮件给你的英国朋友 Henry，邀请他参加你校国庆节举办的建国 70 周年庆祝活动。内容包括：

1. 时间和地点;

2. 有关活动: “歌颂祖国”歌舞晚会、“改革开放成就”图片展...

注意: 1. 词数 80 左右; 2. 可以适当增加细节, 以使行文连贯。

参考词汇: anniversary 周年纪念日

第二节:读后续写(满分 25 分)

阅读下面短文, 根据所给情节进行续写, 使之构成一个完整的故事。

第二节 读后续写 (满分 25 分)

阅读下面短文, 根据所给情节进行续写, 使之构成一个完整的故事。

It was the middle of the day with bright sun, blue sky, green grass, and a soft breeze (微风). It was a great day to play outside and the best day of my life because I got a new ball and a new bike as my sixth birthday presents, and I was visiting my cousin, Kristy, at her house.

“Here I go!” shouted David while kicking my new ball. David lived next door and was older than me. I thought he was a wild child, but he was actually very kind. The ball went flying as if it were going to space. “That was high!” Kristy said in surprise and we went after the ball. We all had a great time.

Later we had supper and the food my aunt made was good. While Kristy was helping do the dishes, David and I ran outside to play. We started taking turns riding my bike. David suggested that we ride it to the forest. And I agreed, David and I got on the bike and David started going fast.

As we rode through the forest, I felt the wind brushing my face. It felt so great and free. Suddenly the bike hit a fallen branch and we went flying off the bike. Lying on the ground, I felt dizzy (眩晕). I checked myself for injuries and saw some but they didn't bother me.

“David!” I shouted out loudly and anxiously.

“Hey”, said a voice. I turned my head and it was David, who was standing behind me, holding my broken bike. At the sight of my disabled bike, I was so sad that I couldn't hold back my tears. It took David some time to calm me down.

注意： 1. 所续写短文的词数应为 150 左右；

2. 续写部分分为两段，每段的开头语已为你写好；

Paragraph 1:

When we realized it was time to walk home, we found ourselves lost.

Paragraph 2:

It was completely dark when we saw fireworks (烟花) being set off in the distance.
