第二节 读后续写

One possible version:

Soon Karie heard her dad come in with the smell of pizza floating in the air. "Where's your spelling test paper, sweetheart?" Dad asked, gazing at her eagerly. Karie gulped before trying to answer. "I..." she fumbled in her backpack, took out the paper and handed it unwillingly to her Dad. When Dad was admiring the perfect 100 on the paper, he spotted "honesly". Dad frowned, "Probably you don't deserve the prize." Immediately, the scene flashed back when a cashier in the pizza shop gave them too much change by mistake, her father went straight back to return the unexpected money instead of keeping it. She soon understood what she should do.

Ms. Smith was unlocking the classroom door when Karie got to school the next morning. "You're an early bird," Ms. Smith smiled at her. Hands slightly trembling, Karie gave Ms. Smith her test paper as well as the dictionary. Karie confessed her spelling mistake in the test, a pink flush spreading over her cheeks. "I see." Even though Ms. Smith tried to contain her emotions, surprise registered on her face. For a moment, Ms. Smith stood quietly reading the note on the dictionary. Then she picked up a pen, crossed out the word "perfect" and wrote "honest" instead before handing the prize back to Karie. "I get to keep this? Honestly?" Karie's jaw dropped. "For 'honestly', no." Ms. Smith grinned. "But for honesty, yes."

W: Pass me the orange juice, please?

M: Sorry, I didn't hear that. The kids are making such a noise.

W: I like peace and quiet while dining. They should play their pop songs elsewhere. (1)

Text 2

M: Who was that knocking at the window? Did we lock Allie out again?

W: No, our kid has slept soundly. (2) It was one of those wild turkeys in the neighborhood. They like to hit our door and windows. They're worse than the cat!

Text 3

W: It's so cold here. Let's go to the beach for the holiday. I found cheap tickets to the south of France in December.

M: I was thinking about a ski trip, but we can save that for February. (3)

Text 4

M: Can you believe it? Just a few weeks ago we were wearing shorts and now we are wrapped up against winter winds?

W: The weather changes so fast in this city. In summer it's hot, and now we have this freezing weather. (4)
But spring will soon come around.

Text 5

M: I'd like one pound of beef, two pounds of ham, and two more pounds of chicken. How much will that cost?

W: That will be $25, sir. I'll have to cut the beef up. It should only take about five minutes. (5)

Text 6

W: I got my driver's license the day I turned 18, but my parents didn't let me drive till three years later. (6)

M: My parents bought me a second-hand car when I got my driver's license.

W: You are lucky. I had to have all of my friends drive me around for years! What month were you born in? I was born in September. My birthday is exactly two months after my sister's!

M: I was born on Christmas actually. (7) It gets a little annoying because we have to celebrate both and I don't get my own day!

Text 7

W: How was your camping trip last weekend, John?

M: Not great. The first night we stayed at one of those camping areas where you need to pay to get in. There were too many people there, though. (8) (9)

W: So, what happened next?

M: The next day we decided to hike about four hours to a spot where there wasn't anybody around. (9) That was a big mistake.

W: Why?

M: None of us brought anything to make a fire with. Then it started raining, and we realized even with our warm clothes, it was too cold to stay overnight.

W: So what did you do?

M: We hiked back to the original camping area in complete darkness. We left the next morning because everyone was too tired from the night before. (9)

Text 8

M: Roger is so intelligent. (10) He's a hard worker. He has good ideas and he doesn't follow the crowd.

W: So why does he do so badly in his exams? (10)

M: Because he suffers from anxiety. He lacks confidence. (10) When it comes to exams, his intelligence actually works against him.

W: I wish we could help him. It seems so unfair that a person's future can be determined by how well they perform on one particular day.

M: It is unfair—but life is unfair. We must try to help him by showing him how to keep calm in stressful situations. (11)

W: How do we do that?

M: I can help him. I always think that exercise is a great way for dealing with stress and anxiety. When you have exhausted yourself while doing exercise, you don't have the energy to be nervous. (12)

W: That is so right! I always feel calm after working out in the gym. (12)

Text 9

M: How is the job hunt going? (13)

W: I've applied to more than 20 jobs and had three interviews. I got two job offers but I do not really like either of them. (13)

M: Why not?

W: Neither of them gave me a good salary offer. I think I deserve more than that.

M: Well, do you like the companies and the benefits they are offering you?

W: I do, especially one of them called The Creator. (14) They got a lot of great reviews from their employees, and they are offering a great benefits package which includes medical and dental insurance and more holiday time than any other company. (14)

M: That's great. Don't just decline the job offer. You know what, you can negotiate the salary offer they give you. (16)

W: I'd been at the company we were at for so long. (15) I forgot about the job process. I am a little worried about asking for more.

M: Listen! If they offered you a job, that means they want you! Everyone needs people to figure out what to do with all the data being collected.

W: You have a point. I will give them a call right now. (16)
