第二节（满分 25 分）

One day, Bob took me to a wheelchair basketball game. We watched the players weave their way and make impressive shots, They were fiercely competitive and moved around the court with incredible speed and precision, using wheelchairs to their full advantage. How I wished I could be one of them! Seeing the spark of excitement in my eyes, Bob whispered, “You can do it if you try.” I hesitated, “You mean it?” He nudged me and smiled, “It doesn’t hurt to give it a shot!” (75 words)

With Bob's encouragement, I decided to have a try at my dream.Initially, it was a struggle. Getting around in a wheelchair was challenging itself, let alone defending or shooting. Luckily, I was introduced to some of the wheelchair players who shared some tricks and encouraged me to carry on. Bob was always keeping me company during all the practices. The more I practiced, the more potential I saw in myself. I was back on court with Bob, pursuing my basketball dream, just in a different way. (75 words)
