应用文

One possible version:

Dear Mr. James,

Learning that you are looking for someone to teach your 8-year-old son Chinese, I am writing to recommend my friend Wang Ming.

Discipline and diligence makes Wang Ming one of the top students in the class. Being good at Chinese and English, he once won the first place in our school speech competition. Besides, he's easy-going and willing to help others. In short, I am convinced that he is an ideal candidate.

I would be appreciative if you could consider my recommendation favorably.

Yours,
Li Hua

概要写作

One possible version:

A plant-based diet centers on nutritious wholefoods coming from plant sources, with animal proteins serving as complements. (要点 1) Research has shown a plant-based lifestyle is conducive to keeping healthy, especially reducing the risk of cardiovascular disease. (要点 2) Besides, abundant fiber and water in the plant-based diet generate the feeling of being full, consequently contributing to losing weight. (要点 3) Moreover, plant-based eaters may have bright and smooth skin thanks to the rich vitamins from the diet. (要点 4)

听力原文

(Text 1)

W: How was your trip to Malaysia?

M: Excellent. I really had a good time.

W: Did you have any culture shock.

M: Not really. I wasn't there long enough for that. But I really couldn't get used to the hot weather.

(Text 2)

W: I've never seen you in that shirt before.

M: Oh, I've had it for 2 years, but I don't wear it very often — it's a little tight on the shoulders.

W: The color suits you, though.

(Text 3)

W: Here we are, sir. The fare is five dollars. Would you like me to wait for you?

M: Yes, I'll be in the bank for only a few minutes, and then I want to go to lunch.

(Text 4)

M: Would you mind making some copies for me?

W: Certainly not. When do you need them?

M: I need them for a meeting which starts in an hour.

W: OK. I'll do them right away.

(Text 5)

W: Jim, I'm having problems with all the theories we're getting in our computer course.

M: Oh, that part I understand. What I can't figure out is how to make it work in my program.

(Text 6)

W: Can I help you?

M: Yes. My room hasn't been cleaned and the bed hasn't been made.

W: What room number, sir?

M: 26. On the 2nd floor.

W: I'll make sure that someone does it straight away.

M: I also asked for a 7 o'clock wake-up call this morning, but the systems didn't work. I overslept and missed my breakfast.

W: I'll make sure that doesn't happen tomorrow morning.

M: Would you do that for me, please? I shall also expect a reduction in my bill if the service doesn't improve.

W: Let's hope we can improve it.

M: I do hope so.

(Text 7)

W: Hello, Mr. Johnson. This is Kim Smith. I'm calling about a job offering at your company that I saw advertised on Internet.

M: Thanks for calling. We'll be having interviews next Monday and Tuesday. Are you free those days?

W: Actually, I'm going to be out of town next Monday. Can I have an interview on Friday? I'll be back that day.

M: Well, that's the plan. We need to find someone to fill the position quickly. If you're not available next Monday or Tuesday, I'm afraid we won't be able to consider you for the job.

(Text 8)

W: Our event to introduce our new phone didn't go as well as we planned. We booked a hall that held two hundred fifty people, but only one hundred attended.

M: What was the problem? Didn't you do enough advertising?

W: We had plenty of advertising, but I think we did it too close to the event and people's schedules were already booked. Also, the event was on a Friday night, but a lot of people have to work then, so I think we would have done better on a Saturday.

M: But Saturdays are busy, too. Last year we did it on a Saturday and the attendance was about the same. Maybe next time we should do more Internet advertising instead of relying heavily on television ads.

(Text 9)

W: Hi John. Would you mind answering some questions about your reading habits?

M: OK, Ruby.

W: Well, when do you read? For example I generally read before I go to sleep at night or if I wake up early in the morning. How about you?

M: I like to read when I'm traveling on the bus.

W: Sure. How many hours a week do you spend reading?

M: Well it depends, but half an hour on the bus, 5 days a week -- plus maybe another half hour, so about 3 hours in total.

W: I probably read more than you — more like 4 hours. What sort of books do you like? Hmm .. Science fiction, books about war

M: Well, I prefer travel books. I think you can learn a lot from non-fiction, don't you?

W: I suppose so, but I prefer to read something light in my free time.

M: What, love stories?

W: Exactly, fiction's perfect for relaxing.

M: I'm afraid I think those sorts of books are a bit of a waste of time.

(Text 10)

W: Good evening, everyone. In tonight's show I'll talk about Stephen and Jenny's Corryvale Farm and their business. Corryvale Farm is in the west of England. Stephen and Jenny keep cows and chickens and sell milk and eggs. But most of their money comes from Jenny's sheep. She has 50 sheep and each one has enough wool for sweaters. Every six months, Stephen cuts the wool off the sheep so they won't get too warm. One year ago, Jenny made some sweaters with the wool and tried to sell them at country markets. But it was summer and the weather was hot so people didn't want to buy sweaters. She then made some socks. Everybody loved them because they were strong, not expensive and easy to wash. That's how Jenny's business started. At first she made the socks at home, but soon she had thousands of customers so she had to send the wool to a factory, where all the socks are now made on machines. There are six colors, five sizes for all ages, and different socks for walkers, sportsmen and skiers. Jenny is busiest at Christmas because Corryvale socks are a favorite present. On the wall of Jenny's office, there are lots of letters from happy customers all over the world.
