A couple planned to go on a vacation. Since the wife was on a business trip so the man went to a the destination first and his wife would meet him the next day. When she reached the hotel, he decided to he send his wife an email. Unfortunately, when typed her address, he mistyped a letter and his note directed to an elderly woman whose husband had just passed away. Immediately the heartbroken widow checked her email, she screamed and fall on the ground unconsciously. At the sound, the families rushed in and saw this note on the screen: family

“Dearest wife, I’ve just checked out. Everything’s been prepared for your arrive tomorrow.”
in arrival

第二节 书面表达 (满分 20 分)

One possible version:

Dear editor:

I’m Li Hua, a student from Class one, Grade three. Recently a growing number of students in my class are sacrificing their sleep to study after bedtime for the Entrance Examination. I’m writing to share my opinions on it.

Diligent as they seem, they can’t achieve what is expected. Without adequate sleep, they will eventually burn out, which in turn has destructive effects on their study. Worse still, their behavior can deprive other students of a sound sleep and fuel the intense competition in a wrong way.

My suggestions are as follows. To begin with, we students need to be aware of the importance of enough sleep. We may as well improve our learning efficiency instead of working into the night.

Meanwhile, it would be better if our school authority could take action to strengthen inspection to guarantee us a good sleep.

Hopefully this situation can be improved. Thank you.

Yours,
Li Hua

Text 1:

W: If I were you, I'd take the bus to work. Driving in that rush hour traffic is terrible.

M: But by the time the bus gets to my stop, there aren't any seats left.

Text 2:

W: Sir, did I do anything wrong?

M: yes, madam, you ran the red light. May I see your driving license, please?

Text 3:

M: You were supposed to arrive here at a quarter to eight.

W: Sorry, I am 20 minutes late.

Text 4:

W: Hi, John, do you want to go camping with us this Sunday?

M: This Sunday? I'd like to, but my sister is ill in hospital, so I have to babysit her little daughter.

Text 5:

W: What do you think of this?

M: It's really not my cup of tea. It's too abstract for me.

W: But look at the colors, so imaginative.

Text 6:

W: I'm starving. Pull over to that restaurant, and we can find something to eat.

M: Oh, no, parking is not allowed here.

W: That's bad. Then where can we park around here?

M: There seems to be a square nearby.

W: Is there a restaurant?

M: You know I'm not familiar with the city, either.

W: Just stop here for a moment. The policeman won't notice.

M: No, we can never break the traffic rules and I must be responsible for your safety.

W: All right, let's go to the square to have a look.

Text 7:

W: Good evening! I'm from Block A, could you please do me a favor?

M: Good evening! What's wrong, madam?

W: I can't find my key anywhere and I'm stuck outside my room. I don't know if I left it in the office.

M: May I have your name, please?

W: Ada Smith. I'm in room A32.

M: Could you please show me your ID card?

W: Sorry, I left it at home. Here is my driving license. Is it okay?

M: Okay, well, now I will go to open the door for you. If you can't find your key in the next 24 hours, you can inform us for the spare ones.

W: Thanks for your help.

Text 8:

M: Home at last. Tonight we have so much homework.

W: Yeah, maybe we don't have time to watch our favorite TV shows tonight. You know I really don't like Mr. Black that much. He always assigns too much homework.

M: Nor do I, he's kind of boring and he always criticizes me in front of others.

W: Yes, and he also...

M: Do you think it's fine to talk about him like this behind his back?

W: Probably not. After all he is our head teacher. We should find something nice to say. If we can't say something nice, we shouldn't say anything at all.

M: You are right. It's getting dark. We should finish our homework right now.

W: All right, but I will take a shower first. I'm exhausted.

Text 9:

M: We experienced a lot in the typhoon in July. Today Mrs. Misk will share with us her experience. Hello, Mrs. Misk, what did you do before the typhoon came?

W: My husband drove to work in the downtown. My sons caught their bus to school 15 minutes away. I was playing with my little daughter in the sitting room.

M: And then?

W: Then the winds started to get strong, and I phoned my husband. As I went to close the windows, I heard some trees crack.

M: Did you stay in the house?

W: No. I got into my car with my daughter and parked in the middle of the yard, where no trees could land on us.

M: Did you panic?

W: Not really. Even though we had a power failure for 3 days, the news had reported the typhoon, so we had all the emergency equipment prepared.

M: Did anyone get injured in your neighborhood?

W: Yes. 2 cleaners as well as a pedestrian were badly injured by the falling trees.

Text 10:

Attention please! Now we are at the entrance and to our right is the tourist office. Behind the office is a car park. In front of us is a water garden. If you walk through the garden you will get to the south bridge, which is the entrance to Bestley Castle. As you leave the castle by the north bridge, you will be greeted with the sight of monkey park. To the right of the monkey park is a museum. There is a picnic area on the other side of the monkey park, and it's perfect for the family as it's next to the kids' play area. Admission is free for the museum, garden and picnic area. There is an admission fee for the castle, which is $16 for adults. Children under the age of 18 pay half adult price and under-8s can go for free. There are several concerts planned this year, including a rock concert at an admission price of $10 per person, and a special Jazz concert as well as a pop concert, which are free to the public. Another site at the end of the tour is the fantastic fireworks display. Don't miss it!
