W: Do you go to your parents' house every weekend?

M: Yes. Every Sunday afternoon at two. My father prepares a big meal for all of us.

(Text 2)

M: Aren't you moving to a smaller apartment?

W: Someday yes. I've already spent months searching for a good one.

(Text 3)

W: Do you know if Mary has come by the office this morning?

M: I just got here myself, so I'm not the one to ask.

(Text 4)

W: So, did you do anything exciting on vacation?

M: Actually, I went to Russia. What about you?

W: Oh, we just hung out at the beach and then we went to watch some movies.

(Text 5)

M: Hey, Jane. Are you coming to watch the tennis match this afternoon?

W: Sorry, I can't. I have a student government meeting.

M: Student government? I thought you joined the chess club this term.

W: I do that, too.

(Text 6)

W: I'd like to make a reservation for three, please. We'd like two rooms for one night.

M: That's one room with one bed and one room with two beds for one night, correct?

W: No, that's one room with one bed and one room without beds.

M: One room without beds? What do you mean?

W: The room without beds is for my two cats. We bring their own beds.

(Text 7)

M: Hi, Mary, how are you doing? Sorry, I'm late.

W: Ah, that's OK.

M: Have you been here long?

W: I just got here. I haven't ordered yet. Are you hungry?

M: Yeah, a little. I'd love a drink first though. So, how's your work?

W: Oh, pretty good. Guess what?

M: What? Go on. Tell me.

W: I got a raise.

M: Hey, that's great news. When?

W: I just heard about it on Monday.

M: Congratulations.

(Text 8)

W: Hello, Professor Nelson. You've been invited to attend a 3-day conference in Brighton and to give a report on your latest research.

M: That's great. When does it start?

W: On the fifth of next month.

M: That doesn't leave me much time to prepare a report.

W: You have still got a week. This is a chance not to be missed. Many other famous scientists from all over the world will attend the conference.

M: Are you going?

W: No, I'm afraid not. I'm going on a business trip to New York the day after tomorrow. But I was asked to have a report to be read at the conference. I was wondering whether you would mind reading it for me.

M: No. It's a pleasure to do something for you.

(Text 9)

M: Hello. I'm Mr Smith. This is my wife. We moved next door to you last week.

W: Nice to meet you, Mr and Mrs Smith. Come in, please... Have a seat. Would you like some coffee?

M: No, thanks. We'll just stay for a minute.

W: Well, what can I do for you then?

M: We're having a party this Friday evening at our place, and we'd like you and your family to join us.

W: Oh, I'd like to, but I'm not sure about my husband's schedule. He always works late.

M: The party will begin at 5: 30 pm and will probably last three or four hours.

W: Why don't you give me your telephone number? I'll call you tomorrow.

M: Please do. This is our phone number.

W: Do you need any help preparing for the party, Mr Smith? I'm free every afternoon.

M: That's very nice of you. How about 4: 00 pm?

W: I'll be there.

(Text 10)

M: Many rules govern drivers on American streets and highways. The most common ones are the speed limit.

The speed limit regulates how fast a car may go. On streets in the city, the speed limit is usually 25 or 35 miles per hour. On highways between cities, the speed limit is usually 55 miles per hour. When people drive over the speed limit, a policeman can stop them. The policeman gives them pieces of paper which people call traffic tickets. Traffic tickets tell the drivers how much money they must pay. When drivers receive too many tickets, they probably cannot drive for a while.

The rush hour is when people are going to work or going home from work. At the rush hour there are many cars on the streets and traffic moves very slowly. Nearly all American cities have rush hours. Drivers do not get tickets very often for speeding at the rush hours because they cannot drive fast.

Dear Peter,

In your last letter, you told me that you were having trouble in senior learning. Now, I am writing to give you some advice on how to learn well.

First of all, I think you should make a good learning plan and finish all your tasks in time. If so, you will know clearly what to do every day and you will make progress gradually. Second, it is necessary for you to go over what you have learned, which will help you have a better understanding. What's more, I suggest you ask for your teacher's help once you come across any questions. Try to look up and use varieties of materials, such as your notes, references, dictionaries and so on. Finally, just believe in yourself and never feel afraid. It is your self-confidence that helps you succeed.

I hope my suggestions can be of great use to you. Wish you success!

Yours,
Li Hua
