听力材料

Text 1

M: I went to the art gallery the day before yesterday, but it was closed. I wonder why?

W: Oh, it's always closed on Saturday, but it stays open on Sunday.

Text 2

W: I don't feel quite myself today. I'm afraid I'm catching a cold.

M: You'd better go and see a doctor. This is a bad time of the year for colds. It's chilly in the morning, hot in the afternoon and windy at night.

Text 3

M: May I help you?

W: How much does this desk cost?

M: It's $99.99, but this week we're having a sale so it's one-third off the regular price.

Text 4

M: I'd like to take you out for a typical Chinese dinner. We can have sweet and sour pork. Or we can try hot chicken.

W: That sounds interesting. I can't wait to have a hot taste.

Text 5

M: Why don't you and Ella join us for dinner tonight? The five of us haven't gone out together for a long time.

W: Ella says it is always too noisy to enjoy the meal at McDonald's.

M: Shall we go somewhere quiet?

Text 6

M: Morning!

W: Morning! Lovely day, isn't it?

M: Mm, marvelous.

W: Are you doing anything special this weekend?

M: Yes, we are taking the children to the seaside. It's such lovely weather!

W: Good idea. Make the most of it.

M: How about you? Any plans?

W: Well, I think I'll do some gardening.

M: Ah, that's nice.

Text 7

M: Hello, Mrs. Taylor. Can you help me? I'm doing my homework and I can't understand this word.

W: Which one? Oh, I can't help you right away...I'm watching something on TV.

M: Oh? What are you watching?

W: I'm watching a cowboy film.

M: Can Mr. Taylor help me?

W: No, he can't now, Paul. He's reading.

M: What's he reading?

W: He's reading a magazine.

M: What about Kate?

W: Oh, she can't help you, either. She's making a phone call now.

M: Oh? Who's she calling?

W: She's calling her boyfriend.

M: Then where is Jack? Can I ask for help from him?

W: He hasn't been home yet... Why? You're asking a lot of questions tonight, Paul.

M: Am I? Well, I'm practicing my English.

Text 8

M: Anna, I heard you're going to Brazil. The World Cup is already over. Why are you going there?

W: I'm going there for a vacation with my parents. My parents don't like watching football games, but they like Brazil, so we'll go there this summer.

M: I heard Mark is going there, too. What is he going to do there?

W: He's going there to take part in a competition.

M: A competition? What is it?

W: Have you heard about the RoboCup?

M: No. What is it?

W: The RoboCup is for people who love creating robots. During the event, some teams of robots will play football in a game.

M: Really? That sounds amazing. I had no idea that Mark creates robots!

W: He's crazy about robots. Actually, his team has taken part in the RoboCup three times.

M: Will you go and watch it?

W: Yes. I'll go and cheer for Mark's team.

Text 9

W: Hey, Charlie, I've been thinking for a long time.

M: Oh, yeah? About what, Amy?

W: About the future... about what I want to be.

M: Hmm. I'm sure there are a lot of things that you can do, like doctor, teacher, secretary...

W: Mmm, maybe. I'd like a job in which I can often travel.

M: Well, what about being a flight attendant? You could travel a lot.

W: No, I've thought of that. Flight attendants work really hard. It's so tiring. And planes aren't safe nowadays. They may crash because of bad weather or even be used as weapons if they fall into the wrong hands.

M: How about being an interpreter? You're really good at languages. And you could travel to international meetings.

W: No, I don't think so. Interpreting doesn't sound interesting to me.

M: Well, what are you interested in?

W: Well, maybe I'll become... an international businesswoman. It's so challenging.

M: But you don't like thinking about money.

W: Well, I could change.

M: Mmm, I don't know. Amy, I just don't see you as a business person.

Text 10

M: Let's welcome Professor Sinclair and invite her to give us her suggestions on weight-loss strategies for overweight children.

W: Good afternoon. Childhood obesity (肥胖) has been receiving increasing attention in recent years. It's no big secret that children like sweets, snacks and fast food. Fast food restaurants make fatty meals even more popular by including toys. However, there are healthy foods that children can enjoy just as much as other choices. Apple sticks dipped in butter are a delicious choice for midday snacks. Following the suggestions in the food pyramid is an easy way to make sure that a child has all of the nutrition he or she needs.

My second suggestion is exercise: Exercise may seem like a dull activity, but it really can be enjoyable. Going for a bike ride, taking a walk around the neighborhood or running around the playground are all fun ways for children to get out and get moving. Fitness for kids is very different to fitness for adults. While adults often have a strong will to force themselves to exercise, kids usually would much rather sit in front of the television and watch their favorite cartoons. It's important to make things fun to get a child's attention and peak his or her interest.

Finally, it is extremely important for overweight children to stick to a healthy lifestyle. The lifestyles of overweight children can prevent them from improving their health. Eating healthy foods and making fitness for kids a fun experience can help get children on the right track to a healthier lifestyle.
