Dear Jack,

I am more than pleased to know you are eager to learn Chinese. Confucius Institute, intended for foreigners to learn Chinese, may be your right choice.

The school offers such interesting subjects as Chinese history and traditional culture. More importantly, you can get access to speaking Chinese with classmates. Besides, you will be involved in some Chinese traditional festivals, like the Spring Festival and the Dragon Boat Festival, during which you can join in activities like making dumplings and eating zongzi, where you can not only enjoy delicious meals but have a good knowledge of Chinese life.

I hope you will find my recommendation helpful.

Yours,
Li Hua

Paragraph 1:

Seeing what was going on, my dad put his hand in his pocket, pulled out a $20 bill and dropped it on the ground. Then he picked it up and tapped the man on the shoulder and said, "Excuse me, sir, this fell out of your pocket." The man turned around and saw the money. He knew what was going on, he looked straight into my dad's eyes, took my dad's hand in both of his, squeezed tightly onto the $20 bill, and with his lip shaking and a tear running down his cheek, he replied, "Thank you, thank you, sir. This really means a lot to me and my family."

Paragraph 2:

That day my father and I went back to our car and drove home without any tickets. We didn't go to the circus that night. When I asked dad why he did so, Dad said, "My child, it was a desperate, heartbreaking and embarrassing situation for a father. Surely he wasn't begging for a handout, but he reminded me of my father, when I was young." He paused for a while, as if wandering in his memory. "We should appreciate what we have obtained from life and seize every opportunity to help others. We didn't go to the circus tonight, but we didn't go without. Now, who wants an ice cream?"

Text 1

W: I don't feel like going out. Why don't we just stay home and watch TV instead?

M: Come on! You promised to take me out for dinner and to the theatre.

W: OK. But homework goes before dinner and theatre, you know.

Text 2

W: John, why do you stand by and watch the milk boiling over?

M: Oh, I'm thinking of being taken to London next week.

Text 3

W: What are you going to do tonight?

M: I'm going to take my daughter out for dinner. And if we have time, we might try to see a movie.

Text 4

W: How was the party last weekend?

M: It was too crowded and the food was gone before I got there.

W: What time did you get home?

M: It was pretty boring so I left at ten and got home before eleven.

Text 5

W: Why has Jerry been acting so mean to everyone?

M: I don't know, but I'm sick of it.

W: Me too. I'm going to say something to him.

M: Let me know what he says.

Text 6

M: Which season do you like the most?

W: I like summer the most, but at the same time, I hate it. I like summer because it's warm. I don't mind the heat and I like the longer days. So, I can do more activities like swimming, bicycling and many other outdoor activities. I usually take a short vacation during the summer so I always look forward to that. However, the part about summer I hate the most is during the rainy season. When it gets hot along with the rain and the wind, it gets terrible.

M: Elizabeth, what's your question?

W: Excuse me. Could you tell me what a yard sale is?

M: As the name suggests, it's a sale held in someone's yard, selling used goods.

W: What can I get there?

M: You can find books, records, cups and furniture. You name it, and they will have it.

W: Why do American people love to buy second-hand goods?

M: To save money, of course. Some people even hope to find treasures there.

W: I see.

M: Actually many Westerners like other people's objects. Even rich people search through used goods for a treasure.

W: I understand. Thank you, Mr Green. You've been very helpful.

M: You're welcome.

M: Do you know the first McDonald's restaurant had no seats for customers to sit on?

W: In that case, people had to stand eating, didn't they?

M: No. Most people bought the food and took it away, and that's the way Mac and Dick thought of to avoid washing the dishes.

W: That's a good idea. But who are Mac and Dick?

M: They were two brothers who ran the first McDonald's. Later a businessman called Ray Kroc asked to buy their business.

W: Did the two brothers agree?

M: Yes. They sold the business to Ray for 27 million dollars.

W: So today there are so many chain stores of McDonald's, right?

M: Exactly. But which McDonald's do you think sells the most hamburgers in the world every day?

W: I guess a certain one in New York?

M: No, no. It's the Hong Kong's. McDonald's.

W: Aha, it's hard to believe.

W: Hi, my name is Katherine.

M: I'm John. It's nice to meet you.

W: Do you know what this professor is like?

M: I have no idea. This is my first year.

W: You are a freshman? Me, too. Where are you from?

M: I'm from San Francisco.

W: I've been there a few times. It's a great city.

M: Where are you from?

W: I grew up in this area.

M: So you know all the fun places to hang out, right?

W: Yeah. The best places are in the heart of downtown. There are a lot of clubs and bars.

M: Oh, I see. Do you know what you are majoring in yet?

W: Not yet. I'm learning towards business, but that's only if I can't get into computer science. How about you?

M: I want to go to medical school, so I'll probably end up majoring in biology.

W: That's cool.

M: Is the weather this bad all the time in the fall?

W: No. This is a typical autumn. It gets worse though. At least it's not raining that much. You'll get used to it. In the meantime, you'll have to watch a lot of movies. Seems like the only thing to do with the bad weather...

M: Oh, the professor is coming.

Doctors at the famous Cambridge University think that hip hop can help depressed and mentally ill people. They say with "hip hop therapy", many of the words to the hip hop songs can reach out to people with emotional problems. A team of doctors wrote a report about this in a special medical magazine. The doctors said a lot of hip hop music speaks of getting over hardships and big difficulties in life. In particular, hip hop talks about being poor, being unpopular, and about crime and drugs. These are all problems that can lead to depression and mental illnesses. The report on hip hop and mental health says hip hop artists use their talents to describe their world and be free. There's often a message of hope in the lyrics. They describe how they want to be---the cars they want, the people they want to date. The doctors chose five hip hop songs for the therapy. One is a classic 1982 tune by Grandmaster Flash. Another is a track called "Juicy" by the Notorious B.I.G. This tells people they can be successful even if others say they can't. B.I.G. explains how teachers said he would be nothing, but then he became a superstar.
