Dear Jim,

I'm glad to know that you'll take part in the "studying in China" speech contest. I'd like to give you some practical suggestions.

I recommend that you talk about the courses on Chinese traditional culture you've attended. The major reason is that they introduce the real treasure in human history. Besides, since you've taken the courses systematically, you're sure to have a better understanding of them. To do it well, I think you should choose impressive examples to gain the recognition of the judges.

Moreover, you have to practice your spoken Chinese to express yourself more clearly and fluently. Speaking skills are also needed, for they can help maximize the effectiveness of your speech.

I really hope my advice will be helpful. Wish you a great success.

Yours,
Li Hua
