第四部分 写作（共两节，满分 40 分）

第一节 （满分 15 分）

Dear Peter,

I am thrilled to hear that you're interested in applying to be a volunteer for the next Asian Games! Participating in the Hangzhou Asian Games as a volunteer was an incredible experience. The vibrant atmosphere, diverse cultures, and the sense of unity were truly inspiring.

To prepare for the next volunteer opportunity, consider enhancing your language skills, as effective communication is vital. It is also a wise choice to gain insights into the host city with books or social media, understanding the cultural context. Lastly, be sure to stay updated on the application details through the official website.

Wish you good luck in your application.

Best regards,

Li Hua

第二节 （满分 25 分）

However, by the end of the day, the votes were counted and Debbie was declared the winner. A friend who helped with the counting let me know I had lost by only twenty votes. The fact that I almost won made me even more depressed. All I'd been hearing for the past few weeks prepared me for the thrill of victory, not the depression of defeat. I wandered at campus aimlessly. To avoid my group or friends, I sat on the steps that led to the school library, just staring at the distance.

That's when I noticed my teacher Mr. Laskey, who turned to me and smiled. "Congratulations!" "No, I didn't win," I replied. Mr. Laskey disagreed, "Yes, you did. It took great courage to compete against such a strong opponent as Debbie in the election and you made it. You won the time and freedom to do whatever you want in the future.” I bet Mr. Laskey knew what he was talking about. After that, I kept my job and took more courses at our state college while completing my high school classes. It was hard but I managed to fit everything in, which I never thought I could have accomplished before.

高三英语听力录音原文

Text 1

W: Hello, may I see your passport please?

M: Here you go.

W: Thank you. And where are you flying with us today?

Text 2

M: Do you like sports?

W: Yeah, I've always been really sporty. I play basketball and tennis at school. Recently I've got into cycling.

Text 3

W: I've been so busy with house cleaning that I am worn out. I haven't given dinner a single thought.

M: Let's order some Chinese food.

Text 4

W: Mom asked me to go grocery shopping but I want to finish my homework. Can you go for me, Nicholas?

M: I guess I can. What did mom ask you to buy?

Text 5

W: Henry, look at your room. What a mess! Where are your dirty clothes?

M: Mom, they are on the floor.

W: Where should they be?

M: On the floor where you can't see them!

Text 6

W: Hello, Steve, nice to talk to you.

M: Lucy, nice to talk to you.

W: It is the morning for you, and it is the evening for me in Shanghai. You are in Vancouver, so what is the weather like in Vancouver?

M: Well, I don't know. Since it is the rainy season in Vancouver, my wife and I came down to Palm Springs here in California for vacation. It is sunny everywhere. I imagine Vancouver is rainy.

Text 7

M: What can I help you with?

W: I'm looking to volunteer here.

M: Oh good! We always call for more volunteers. Where do you want to volunteer? You have two options. You can either work in the garden or in the square.

W: What would I have to do in the garden?

M: Well, we've planted about half of the crops but the rest still need to be planted. And you will also be responsible for the crops and watering.

W: That sounds great. I'll tell some of my friends immediately. Well, thanks for your time.

M: You're welcome. I hope I can work with you soon here.

Text 8

W: Welcome to the "Daily Talk". Today with us is Norman, an engineer who set up his company about six years ago with a business partner. It is a pleasure to meet you.

M: The pleasure is mine.

W: Have you got much work?

M: Yes, we're working on a big construction project in the Middle East right now. It is a grand bridge.

W: Interesting. So what do you do when you are not building bridges?

M: A bit of this and that. I do quite a bit of model engineering.

W: You mean like building toy trains and something like that?

M: Well, I guess so. Actually, I'm working on a model steam train right now. I've been working on it for about 5 years. It's going to be strong enough to pull four people.

W: Wow! Amazing. It was great talking to you.

Text 9

W: Hi, it is Mike, right?

M: Hi, yes. You must be Cindy. The group manager Tony told me to train you on the digital marketing. Do you have any previous experience with the same?

W: I have a basic knowledge of it. What is the working atmosphere here like? I just want some advice before I know how to approach people!

M: Well, our manager Peter is all cool as long as the work is going good. All other members of the team are easy-going. You won't have any problem getting on with them.

W: Ah, that is great. Can you just brief me about the work I would be covering?

M: Sure, there will be seven units of computer system in the following training such as Email marketing, Content Marketing and Mobile Marketing.

W: Great! I hope to learn a lot.

M: You will also have access to online courses so that you can learn additional things at your own pace.

W: Wow! That is amazing. Should we get started with the training?

M: Absolutely. Let's begin!

Hello, everyone. Today I want to introduce our club, that is, Developer Student Club, which was started on 5 January. It is inspired by a plan taken by Google Developers to help university students learn developing for Mobile and the Web. Our club is specifically aimed for university students to build their skills of Mobile, Web, Machine Learning and Cloud service. As a club open to any students, ranging from beginner developers who are just starting, to advanced developers who want further their skills, DSC honors every student with a passion for programming. Students will get to learn about various emerging technologies, like Mobile and Web development, Machine Learning, Artificial Intelligence, Cloud Platforms, etc. Moreover, a number of workshops will be conducted across the UK, providing an interactive space for students to brainstorm new ideas and encouraging students to find creative and innovative solutions, using advanced technologies to solve problems faced by local communities. So if you are interested in our club, come and join us! Students wishing to join our club are welcome to the first meeting on Friday, 1 March, at 16:00 in room 103, building 4.
