Paragraph 2: When I got home, I couldn't wait to check my mobile phone left at home. It was only when I surfed the Internet that I realized how popular this video became. To my astonishment, the video drew much attention from people on line, receiving hundreds of thousands of likes. Instantly, my weakness melted and my confidence welled up inside my heart. It suddenly occurred to me that "Practice makes perfect." Down deep in my heart, this precious memory would be cherished by myself forever.

- Paragraph 1:
- There was tremendous applause when the curtain rose. So overwhelmed was I that I almost wanted to dash out of the stage. At this time, a thought popped into my mind- it was the high time that I examined the effects of my practice. I had to inhale sharply to calm myself down, then I bent down towards the crowd and started my performance. I could hardly remember what I did that time, but the thunderous applause and screams surged through me. You did it, an inner voice told me. Finally, my teacher told me that I could see the result on my phone when I went back home.

Paragraph 2: When I got home, I couldn't wait to check my mobile phone left at home. A sense of anxiety crept upon me, my fingers were nearly frozen. Then I saw my name, decorated with giant, golden words-champion. Not only did I use my unicycle and hula hoop performance to win the first prize but also I had proved it to others that even a weak girl like me could win, just through my practice! I sighed with relief, and I noticed that my mom and sister were shedding tears of joy behind the door. I grinned dazzingly, raced to them and embraced them tightly.

- Paragraph 1:
- There was tremendous applause when the curtain rose. Frozen with fear, I was too nervous to move an inch. My heart started to beat and my mouth was dry. A flush of panic flooded over me. Finally, I plucked enough confidence and courage to go on the stage. I started my performance, the hula loop was perfectly performed. Then I began to ride unicycle. I finished it successfully. I bowed to audiences and breathed a sigh of relief. After that, I went back home.

When I got home, I couldn't wait to check my mobile phone left at home. There were hundreds of messages from my classmates, even from my headmaster. "It's hard for a weak girl to ride unicycle. How did you make it? "he asked. To be honest, I don't know, I just practiced over and over again. As an old saying goes, "Practice makes perfect." I believe that's why I succeeded.

Paragraph 1:

There was tremendous applause when the curtain rose. An inner voice told me that I can't be nervous anymore. I took a deep breath for the sake of decreasing the heavy burden of performance. I walked towards the stage with every confidence. Thanks to my practice before, it's relaxing for me to do a hula hoop . with the mild music, I was to ride my unicycle forwards and backwards steadily." How could she make it?" We've never seen a weak girl give such a marvelous performance." Whispers went around the auditorium. Even the headmaster was immersed in filming the visual feast. After the talent show, I was thrilled to hear that video was posted and managed to draw attention from people online, raising amount of money for charity.

Paragraph 2: When I got home, I couldn't wait to check my mobile phone left at home. Seeing video received hundreds of thousands of likes and raised much money for the charity, smile on my face shone like a diamond. It was when some reporters and TV stations called for interview that I truly realized how hot and popular this video became. In consequence, I was satisfied with the happiness and fun that I brought to others. Balmy breeze wiping my face, a sudden warmth haunted me.

There was tremendous applause when the curtain rose. I'm so nervous that my throat was dry and my face was burning. In order to calm down, I took a deep breath and made a big smile to myself. As scheduled, I put the hula hoop on my neck with my trembling hands and shook my neck as I practiced. My fear decreased as the hula hoop went down to my knees. Later, when riding the unicycle and playing with the hula hoop on the stage, I caught a glimpse of audiences filming the performance. I did it. Meanwhile, a flood of excitement flashed over my heart and audiences clapped warmly.

Paragraph 2:

When I got home, I couldn't wait to check my mobile phone left at home. Suddenly, lots of messages appeared on my phone. One of them was a video in which I performed. "A weak girl like me has such a large power!" To my astonishment, there were above one million likes. Suddenly, my confidence was built up by many kind strangers. What a wonderful experience I had!

Paragraph 1:

There was tremendous applause when the curtain rose. Having taken a deep breath, I cleared my throat, and my performance began. With hundreds of eyes staring at me, I controlled the hula hoop carefully. With the time going by, practicing memories aided me master the trick of showing routine, which drove my nervousness and fear. So addicted was I to my show that any noise failed to bother me. It was like only I was in the auditorium . At last, my performance was over. There was applause again and the headmaster gave me a thumb-up sign.

- Paragraph 2:
- When I got home, I couldn't wait to check my mobile phone left at home. The amount of messages was increasing with a steady speech. Looking through those words full of care and warmth, a wide smile spread over my face, tears blurred my vision. Only at this moment, can I feel how poor my words were. It was so hard for me to express my gratitude. Looking back the usual night, a shy and weak girl has built up her confidence eventually. And the shining memory will remind me over and over again. I will remember the bravery I had was from an ordinary unicycle.

- Paragraph 1:
- There was tremendous applause when the curtain rose. When I saw this enthusiastic scene, my face turned pale and I stood there tongue-tied. I took a deep breath, then made my way toward the stage. My routine was doing a hula hoop and doing some difficult waves. Owing to my helpful practice, I achieved my goals. All of people gave me a thumb-up sign and the stage was overwhelmed with warm clap. Stunned, I built up my confidence, my performance became more elegant and amazing.

Paragraph 2:

When I got home, I couldn't wait to check my mobile phone left at home.

My friends, classmates and parents were all pleased beyond description.

The glint of excitement rose in my eyes. I offered my heartfelt gratitude with a bright ecstatic(狂喜的)smile, like a deer jumping with joy. What a meaningful experience, it taught me about however difficult the thing is.

Make your efforts, you will see it will shine like a diamond.

Paragraph 1:

There was tremendous applause when the curtain rose. I was both nervous and excited when it was my turn. Taking a deep breath, I slowly rode my unicycle towards the stage and put the hula hoop around my neck when the music was on. The audience applauded for me when the hula hoop was about to my knees. Everything seemed good until an unlucky thing happened — I didn't ride backwards firmly so I tumbled! It was so embarrassing but after a very short rest, I struggled to my feet. I tried again and finally, I made it. Seeing this, all the audience cheered and applauded happily.

Paragraph 2:

When I got home, I couldn't wait to check my mobile phone left at home. My deskmate Mary sent the performance video to me and expressed that she was so proud of me. There were also many encouraging messages from my teachers and friends. Not only could I challenge myself but also I helped my school raise money for charity in this performance. More importantly, this unforgettable experience is a reminder for me that I am no longer a weak girl and nothing is impossible.
