Dear John,

I'm sorry to hear that you're suffering from WeChat addiction. I really understand how you feel and I'd like to offer you some useful advice .

First of all, I suggest that you should start some other hobbies, which will take your mind off WeChat. Secondly, you'd better make more friends through face-to-face communication. They'll assist you when you can't resist the temptation of WeChat. Thirdly, it's better for you to do some sports because sports can not only keep you healthy but also enrich your life and help you forget WeChat.

I hope these ideas can help you get rid of your addiction.

Best wishes!

Yours sincerely,

Li Hua

MIDTERM TEST

(Text 1)

W: You look pleased. What's happened?

M: I'm having a poem published in a new book.

W: Congratulations!

(Text 2)

W: How many people did you invite to the Earth Day party?

M: I sent emails to about 20 people. I say the more, the merrier.

W: Saturday should be sunny. We can take advantage of your backyard.

(Text 3)

M: Mary, do you know Mr Smith is going to quit as manager of our department?

W: Really? It was totally unexpected. He got promotion last month. Who will take over then?

M: Colin James.

(Text 4)

M: I'd like to have a tailored jacket, please.

W: So what style do you like

M: Just this one. And I'd like a fold at the back of my jacket.

W: OK. Take off your coat please. I will take your measurement.

(Text 5)

M: Did you watch National Treasure II on TV last night?

W: I wouldn't have missed the performance of Nicolas Cage. I love his charming eyes and perfect playing skills.

M: Me too. I like him very much.

(Text 6)

W: It's about two hours' drive to St. Louis Airport. When do you suppose we should leave?

M: When are we supposed to be there?

W: Let me see. The plane is due to take off at 10:30, so we should be there before 10.00.

M: I think we ought to set off at 7:00, while the roads are empty.

W: OK. When we arrive, we can spend some time having tea at the airport.

(Text7)

W: The service is really slow here. I've been trying to get the waiter's attention for the last ten minutes.

M: I hope he takes our order soon. Otherwise, I'll be late for my class at two o'clock.

W: Me, too. I have a class at 2:00 as well. I notice you have a maths book. Do you like the summer school here?

M: It's pretty good. I think I've learned a lot.

W: Yeah, I only wish the classes were a little smaller, but I like my teachers a lot. They are very kind and they never lose patience with us.

M: I see.

W: Oh, here comes the waiter.

M: Good. I'm starving.

(Text 8)

W: Oh! You've spilled red wine on me. My new dress is ruined.

M: I'm terribly sorry. What can I do to help? Here's some water to wash it off.

W: Stop, stop! Oh, this is terrible. This dress cost a fortune. I saved for months to buy it, and now it is ruined. Look at it!

M: Accidents do happen. Well, this might be a good time to introduce myself. I'm John Owen. I'll take you home. You can change your clothes, and I'll get the dress cleaned for you.

W: Well. At least you're polite. After all, it was an accident,

M: I'm glad to see that you've calmed down. Feel like eating afterwards?

W: OK. If you can get it clean, I'll be very happy.

(Text9)

M: Hello, can I speak to Miss Leaney

W: This is Leaney. May I know who's calling

M: I'm Adam Watt from the Seven Star Insurance Company. Thank you for your interest in our company. I need some more information from your side.

W: Oh, sure, Mr Watt. Please go ahead.

M: You've got a degree in finance. Why did you apply for this job?

W: I read the job description and discovered a few interesting programmes that I'd like to be a part of. They are challenging, just the sort of things I consider to fit me best.

M: I see. But given your educational background, wouldn't you want to work for some bigger companies?

W: I prefer smaller companies to bigger ones, because a smaller business has the ability to be more flexible in its service offerings. In a small company, we can provide our customers with the exact service that they need. By doing this, we can form a closer relationship with our customers as if they were our neighbours or relatives.

M: That's very interesting. When will you start to work?

W: In two weeks. I've promised my parents a ten-day visit. I can start work immediately after I'm back.

M: Great! I will call you back in a couple of days about our final decision.

W: OK. Thank you very much.

(Text 10)

M: Hello, everyone. Today I'm going to talk about small talk. That is short conversations people often have with strangers they meet. Such exchanges occur at bus stops, on buses, while waiting in line, almost anywhere that strangers gather close together. As a matter of fact, these short conversations are a good way for people to say hello and express friendliness. Such conversations usually cover a wide range of topics. The topics may include weather, customer service, movies, TV shows, local sports or latest news. But you should always keep it in your mind that private questions about incomes, family life and religious beliefs should be avoided during these conversations. In addition, it's better to ask open-ended questions. If you ask visitors, “Do you like our city?”, they may say simply “Yes!” On the other hand, if you ask, “What do you think of our city?”, they will have more freedom in answering. This type of question also shows that you're interested in them. If you appear interested in what people are saying, they feel more comfortable talking with you.
