Dear Tim,

Knowing that you'll visit China in the coming winter holiday, I'm writing to recommend a city to you.

Recognized as the capital city of China, Beijing is a city you can never miss. With a long history and various tourist attractions, it attracts thousands of tourists every year. What will amaze you most is the Great Wall, one of the greatest wonders in the world. The Palace Museum and the Summer Palace are well worth visiting, too. Besides, the local snacks will surely be appealing to you.

Wish you a pleasant and rewarding journey in China.

Yours,

Li Hua

Para. 1

I quickly stole a glance at Dad. His blue eyes were twinkling as he nudged me with his elbow. Mother craned her neck for another glimpse out the rear window as we rode up the street. "It's gone...", she whispered. I was almost certain that I detected a trace of sorry in her voice. I would never forget that Christmas morning. I watched as Mother peeled the tissue paper off a large box. Dad was sitting in his rocker, a huge grin on his face. "Only a fool wouldn't give a priceless wife like mine exactly what she wants for Christmas," he laughed. "Go ahead, open it up." Dad winked at me, confirming his secret, and my heart was filled with more love for my father than I thought it could hold! Mother opened the box only to find a flare of red shimmering dress.

Para. 2

With trembling hands she touched the elegant material of Big Red. "Oh, my goodness!" she managed to utter, her eyes filled with tears. "Oh, Frank..." Her face was as bright as the star that twinkles on our tree in the corner of the small room. "You shouldn't have...", came her faint attempt at scolding. "Oh now, never mind that!” Dad said. Let’s see if it fits,” he laughed, helped her slip the marvelous dress over her shoulders. As the shimmering red satin fell around her, it gracefully hid the patched and faded house-dress underneath. I watched, my mouth wide open, attracted by a radiance in my parents I had never noticed before. As they waltzed around the room, Big Red swirled its magic deep into my heart. “You look beautiful,” my dad whispered to my mom, and she surely did!

听力材料:

Text 1

W: Hi, Peter, how is your new job?

M: It's good. I get well paid and the company is near my house, but I often work overtime. (1)

Text 2

M: Do you still have two tickets for the 12: 30 tour? (2)

W: Yes, we do. The tour will run in thirty minutes, sir. (2)

M: That's fine. I am on the way now. Just keep them for me.

Text 3

M: I went skydiving yesterday. It was so exciting.

W: Do you really enjoy such dangerous sports?

M: Yes, they are challenging. I often go rock climbing, too. I'll try deep-sea diving someday. (3)

Text 4

M: I want some books for my English study, but I can't find any suitable.

W: Have you used the search engine?

M: Yes, I've used it. A couple of books come up but they're not on the shelves. Someone has checked them out. (4)

Text 5

W: Holidays are coming up. What do you plan to do? (5)

M: I'm going to Bali. I will visit some tourist resorts. I will go shopping, go swimming, and see beautiful scenery. I'm going to be there for a week.

W: Oh, it sounds wonderful. I envy you.

Text 6

W: Would you like to buy any gifts, sir?

M: Yes, I'd like a toy animal, please.

W: Right. The toy elephants are 20 euros each and the giraffes are a bit cheaper.

M: The giraffes are nicer, I think. (6)

W: OK. They're 16 euros each or 27 euros for two. (7)

M: I'll just have one, thanks. (7)

W: And would you like one of these pens? They're only 8 euros each.

M: No, thanks. Just the giraffe. (6)

Text 7

W: Good morning, Mr. Jones. I'm afraid that the air conditioner in your room needs to be repaired.

We would like to request you to change your room. (8) We are very sorry for that.

M: OK. Well, I suppose I have no choice.

W: What time is convenient for you to change your room?

M: I'm going out in about half an hour.

W: When will you be back?

M: Oh, around seven o'clock, I suppose.

W: I see. We can move your luggage when you are out. But could you take your valuable things with you? Remember to get your new room key from the front desk when you return.

M: OK. I'll do that.

W: Thank you very much, sir.

Text 8

M: I'm hungry! Do you want to go to the burger shop and get something to eat?

W: Sure. But I need to stop at the drugstore first. (10) I need some vitamins.

M: Why do you want to waste your money? Vitamin pills don't really help you. (11)

W: Chris, that's not true! Actually more people should take them because they play a vital role in good health.

M: How?

W: Many people don't eat healthy food like fruit and vegetables and don't have a balanced diet. So a vitamin pill can provide some of the missing nutrients.

M: I think it's better to get all your nutrients from food, not from pills.

W: That's right. But a lot of people eat like you!

M: What does that mean?

W: Your diet consists of fast food and soft drinks. (12) That's not healthy!

Text 9

M: Hello! Can I speak to Anna, please?

W: Anna speaking. Is that you, John?

M: Yes, it is. I am going to China in a week, (13) and my wife and kids are going with me.

W: In a week? Let me see. Today is June 12th. (13) How long will you be away?

M: For about two or three years. My boss wants me to help him set up a branch company in Beijing, China. (14) Well, Anna, you have been to China. Can you give us some suggestions and tell us something about that country?

W: Sure, I'd love to. But I just had a five-day holiday in China. My cousin Jeff is much more familiar with China. He studied as an exchange student at a university in Beijing for four years. (15) You are so lucky! Jeff is visiting me these days.

M: Really? That's great. We can have a talk another day.

W: OK. Why not come over for dinner in my house this weekend? (16) Alan wants to meet you as well.

M: All right. What about Saturday? (16)

W: OK. See you at 6 pm then. (16) Goodbye!

Text 10

Good morning, everyone. Thank you and your head teacher, Mr. Jones, for inviting me to come and talk about our special Science Nights at the City Science Museum. (17) Every event is on a different topic and I hope some of you will be able to come and take part in our next one. So, what is a Science Night? Well, you arrive at 7 o' clock in the evening, do lots of interesting projects and then, at 10: 30, you go to sleep in the space gallery, (18) camping among the objects in the exhibition. In the morning, after breakfast, you watch a film and we give out prizes to people who created the best projects the evening before. (19) Sounds great, doesn't it? If you and your parents want to find out more about it first, you can become a friend of the museum on Facebook and read reviews and see if you like the idea. I hope you do. (20) Well, thank you for listening to me. If you'd like to know anything else, just ask me. Thanks very much. I really hope to see you at a Science Night soon.
