The moment the gentleman left, Mr. Rose went in search of his son. Much troubled, Mr. Rose had told Charles that he must never venture on the river, and he thought he could trust him. With anxiety, he sprinted to the river, and paced up and down, in hope of seeing the boat. Failing to catch sight of it, he grew uneasy. He thought Charles must have gone a long way off. Unwilling to leave without learning something of him, he went to the hut. When he put his head in at the open window, a pleasant sight met his eyes. Charles was at the table, ruling a copybook Joe was reading to him, while his mother was spinning in the corner. Somewhat stunned but delighted, he slid away silently, a decision made in his heart.

The next day, his father took him to town, and gave him books for himself and Joe, with writing paper, pens, and ink. Charles was the happiest boy in the world. Hardly had he come home when he ran to Joe, his hands filled with parcels, and his heart beating with joy. After informed the whole story, Joe was overflowing with happiness, throwing his hands around Charles. With the materials bought, they found the study easier and gradually made enormous progress with their tireless efforts.

Text 1

W: Dad, did you see my pencil-box anywhere?

M: Is it under your school bag?

Text 2

M: The car was a total loss. Did you see it?

W: Yes. And it is unbelievable that three women and a baby were in safety in the horrible accident.

Text 3

M: I spent so many hours polishing my letter of application.

W: It's worthwhile to make the effort. You know just how important it is to give a good impression.

Text 4

W: Bill, are you still planning to buy that nice red sports car you looked at last week?

M: I'm afraid that's impossible because I haven't been able to come up with the cash, and someone else has already made a down payment on it.

Text 5

W: How far is it from here to Philadelphia?

M: Oh, about four hours' drive.

W: What's the best way to get there?

M: Route 8 is the fastest.

Text 6

W: We've been hearing a lot about the actor, Vinnie Jones. Over in Britain he's really well-known, isn't he?

M: Well, yeah! He's much better known in Britain than he is here, in America.

W: So, what's the big deal? What's so special about Vinnie Jones?

M: Well, before he became an actor, he was already well-known as a soccer player. In fact, I'd say he's still more famous for his soccer skills than his acting.

W: Which team did he play for? Manchester United?

M: No, no, in fact for much of his profession, he played for Wimbledon.

W: Wimbledon?

M: Yes, they're not as successful as Manchester United. But while he was playing for them, they beat Liverpool and won the Cup.

Text 7

M: Hey, Lily. Looks like you got some sun last weekend.

W: Yeah, I guess so. I spent the weekend at the beach.

M: Oh, yeah? That's great! So what are you doing back here?

W: Oh, I have a paper I need to work on, and I just couldn't do any serious studying at the beach.

M: I don't blame you. So what did you do out there...I mean besides lying out in the sun?

W: I jogged up and down the beach and I played volleyball. You know, I never realized how hard it is to run on sand. I couldn't even get through a whole game before I had to sit down. It's much easier to run in the wet sand near the water.

Text 8

M: Jane, what are you holding in your hand?

W: It's my family photo album.

M: Can I have a look at it?

W: Sure.

M: Is this old gentleman your grandfather?

W: Yes. He's 75 years old now and he's a great writer.

M: Is the old lady sitting beside him your grandmother?

W: Yes, you're right. She was an actress when she was young. Look, this photo was taken when she was only 20 years old.

M: Oh, what a handsome gentleman your father is! And your mother is a good match for your father. How many brothers and sisters do you have?

W: I have one elder brother and one younger sister.

M: Are your grandparents living with you all?

W: Yes. We live in a big house with a big garden behind it.

M: Oh, that sounds great.

Text 9

W: Excuse me, is this a travel agency?

M: Certainly, Madam.

W: Great! Perhaps you can help me.

M: What would you like, Madam? A weekend in Las Vegas?

W: Oh, no. I don't think my husband would let me go there.

M: Well, what do you want?

W: Do you have any interesting program for the two-day weekend?

M: Oh, yes. We have lots of interesting programs for the weekend. You certainly don't seem to like a long trip, do you?

W: No, we don't. We feel tired after a week's work.

M: Then, what about Santa Monica Beach? There you can swim, lie in the sun on the soft sand, and play beach volleyball.

W: Sounds nice. What about the price?

M: $200 each.

W: Good. But I have to talk to my husband first.

Text 10

W: Roberto Clemente was born in 1934 in Puerto Rico. His parents did not have much money. But they taught their children to be good and honest. They also taught their children the importance of honor. Clemente had all of these qualities. As a child, Roberto loved baseball. He listened to baseball games on the radio. He played baseball with his friends. He also played in high school on a city team. When he graduated from high school in 1953, nine professional teams wanted Clemente to play for them. The Brooklyn Dodgers offered him 10,000 dollars. Clemente said yes. Then another team offered him 30, 000 dollars! Clemente asked his parents for advice. His mother said that he must keep his word. So he signed a contract with the Dodgers. Clemente received many awards and made a lot of money. But he gave a lot, too. In 1972, there was an earthquake in Nicaragua. Clemente collected food, clothing, and medicine for the people. He went on a plane to bring the supplies to people in Nicaragua. But after the plane took off, it crashed into the water. Everyone on the plane died. Clemente was a great baseball player and a hero.
