第一节（满分15分）

Dear teachers and my fellow students,

Our school will be celebrating this year's World Food Day next Thursday. The purpose of this event is to increase our awareness of the importance of cherishing every single grain on our plate. Our school chefs will be showing how food in our cafeteria is prepared. Also, some posters will be on display at the Student Center to illustrate how our favorite dish is produced from field to plate. Please log onto the school website to know more about the details.

As president of the Student Union, I encourage each and every one of you to join us and become the agent of change!

Thank you!

第二节（满分25分）

It was our turn next. I felt goose bumps and my hands were shaking. My teammates also seemed very nervous. Jackie immediately worked out our expressions. "Hey, it's going to be alright guys. You have got to enjoy yourself, move with the beat and dance your heart out," she encouraged us. As we went up the stage, I felt a new energy. We were going to show the judges how excellently we could not only dance, but also make the audience connect and feel with us. That determination and courage made me and our team ace the competition.

I could hardly believe my eyes when I saw the 9.5 on the screen. It was the highest mark yet, and ours was the last performance. The crowd was bowled over by us. As we were bowing in response to the standing ovation we received, I glimpsed sideways and saw a beaming Jackie cheering with the audience. Our rivals came to meet us too. I could detect a note of disappointment in their "Congrats". However, that was not what caused me to grin, it was just my elation at how we outshone them with our performance.
