应用文写作（满分 15 分）

Possible version:

Dear Li Ming,

Learning that our school's First English Festival is approaching and hosts are needed, I'm writing to recommend myself for this precious opportunity.

First of all, I have a good command of English and can speak English fluently and accurately, which makes it easy for me to communicate with others. Besides, once being a host in the New Year Party, I have the experience of how to be a good host, like how to feel ease on the stage and how to interact with audience.

I do hope I'm the right person that you are looking for. And I'd appreciate it if you could take my application into account.

Yours sincerely,

Li Hua

概要写作（满分 25 分）

Possible version:

While tourism brings great benefits, it also causes serious problems. One problem is that many tourists, who want to prove their presence, destroy the tourist sites using paint, rocks to leave ugly marks on. Another problem is that some tourists wander around randomly or even party late, disturbing the locals. Therefore, it is high time that we should behave ourselves to avoid these problems. (64words)

附听力原文

(Text 1)

M: Hello! I'm looking for a present for my son. He hates reading, except on his computer.

W: Will a CD do? We have a music department with a great selection.

M: That sounds like a good idea.

(Text 2)

W: Hi, Eric, would you draw up this project for me? I have a meeting this evening.

M: I'm afraid not. I'm leaving to catch a flight in about 30 minutes. Hawkins is sending me to visit the Chicago office. I only came in to get some pictures.

(Text 3)

W: Will John be able to play in the basketball game this week?

M: I'm afraid he won't. He hurt his knee pretty badly. I don't know why he didn't quit right away.

(Text 4)

W: There's a machine over there.

M: Oh, good. I'll get some money out and we can have a drink now. Er...

W: What's up?

M: I forgot my card.

(Text 5)

M: Everything is ready?

W: Yes. I've packed all the things. But no thanks to you.

M: What do you mean?

W: Well, you might have offered to lend a hand, instead of just sitting there reading the paper.

(Text 6)

W: What can I do for you?

M: I have this radio that I bought here a few months ago. But it doesn't work now, so I'd like you to fix it or return my money.

W: I'm sorry, sir. The after-sales service ended ten days ago.

M: But the machine obviously went wrong when I bought it.

W: Well, the workers in our service center can look at it, but you have to pay more money. This is our policy.

M: Well, OK. I think I have no other choice.

(Text 7)

W: So what's new with you, Tom?

M: Well, I met a really nice woman, Lucy. She works with my sister.

W: Yeah? That's great!

M: We've been going out for a couple of months now and, well, things look great!

W: So, do you have a picture of her?

M: Oh, I just happen to have one. This picture is a year old, so she looks a little different now. we haven't taken any pictures together yet.

W: Oh, she's lovely. I always wanted long hair.

M: Oh, she's had her hair cut short. It's not long anymore. She doesn't wear glasses now, either. Otherwise, it looks just like her.

W: Speaking of changes, have you seen Bill lately?

M: No, how's he doing?

W: Really well. I mean, he's lost a lot of weight, you know.

M: Oh, that's good. He was putting on weight.

W: He looks much better. You can especially see it in his face. Much slimmer. Oh, and did you know he's shaved off his beard?

M: No! No beard? I can't imagine Bill without some kind of hair on his face. He had that beard in college and he's had that for, what, ten years?

W: Yes. I miss it. I hope he grows it back. So tell me some more about your girlfriend...

(Text 8)

W: I'm free this afternoon. Shall we go to the cinema? We haven't seen a movie together for a long time.

M: OK. But I hate love stories. They're long and boring. Any films about war on today?

W: I'm afraid not. How about the theater? We can walk there after supper.

M: Well, most plays are badly written, though they are not expensive.

W: Let's go to a concert. You like music very much, don't you?

M: Yes, light music. It's beautiful. But now you can only hear noisy music. American songs or songs of which you can't understand a single word.

W: What are you going to do then?

M: Why not go to the library to borrow some books? You like reading as much as I do, don't you?

W: That's right. OK, let's go.

(Text 9)

M: Have you moved into your new house yet?

W: We just moved in yesterday, actually.

M: So, what do you think about the place? Are you glad that you moved in?

W: It's great! Unfortunately, we're going to spend a fortune doing everything up.

M: How old is the house then?

W: It's about 200 years old. It has a lot of history!

M: Sounds fascinating. Where is your new house?

W: It's in the west side of the city.

M: Do you have a big yard?

W: Yes, it's bigger than our last one. I've got flowers in the front, and fruit, vegetables and a fish pond in the back. Our windows let plenty of natural light in. They've also got wonderful views of the park behind our house.

M: How many rooms does your house have?

W: Right now, there are three bedrooms, two bathrooms, a kitchen, a dining room, and a living room. We're hoping to add on a green room and a guest bedroom. In fact, when the guest room is ready, you should come and stay with us for a weekend.

M: I'd love to. Thanks a lot.

(Text 10)

W: Good afternoon, boys and girls. I'm glad to share my experience in English learning with you. I hated languages at school. I just wasn't interested in learning, so I never did my homework and I was always bottom of the class when it came to exams! Maybe it wasn't her fault, but I really didn't get on with my teacher. She seemed to think I was a stupid young girl. Things started to change when I got my first job, though. I spent my first two years in the Sales Department, and I had to speak English on the phone almost every day, which wasn't easy. I didn't really have enough time to go to class, so at first I tried to study on my own. I also persuaded an English-speaking friend to give me some private lessons and I started to make progress. I don't know when it was exactly that I realized my English was good enough to do First Certificate, but I did... and I passed! So, I don't hate English any more. In fact it's made quite a big difference in my life!
