(Text 1)

M: Susan, it's me. We'll meet at the north gate of the department store at 7:30 pm, right?

W: Sorry, Frank, I need to work overtime for about half an hour. Can we meet one hour later than scheduled?

M: Sure.

(Text 2)

W: Why don't you go to bed, Jimmy? Are you reading that storybook?

M: Oh, I just remembered I hadn't done my science homework yet. I'm searching online for some information about it.

(Text 3)

M: I enjoy looking around the bookshop. It's really enjoyable.

W: Me too. I always find a book in the shop or the supermarket and then buy it online! It's often a lot cheaper.

(Text 4)

M: Miss, just calm down. Tell me who you're here to see.

W: I have a job interview with Mr Beringer, but my car broke down on the way, and I was supposed to be here 15 minutes ago!

(Text 5)

M: How are the sales figures looking?

W: They're great! We had a sharp rise after the online marketing campaign began. It's better than hiring extra salespeople.

M: Good! Now I'm thinking of offering some discount next season.

(Text 6)

M: Hi, Silvia. Are you going camping with us?

W: Surely, yes.

M: Great. It should be good fun unless the weather gets bad.

W: What do I need to take?

M: Well, when I get home, I'll text you the list I've made. You don't need to worry about food though. I've packed enough hamburgers. That's the easiest thing to do.

W: Fine. In case we run out of hamburgers, I'll take some tins and bread.

M: Good idea. If you want, bring some cards. We could play at night.

(Text 7)

M: Have you ever heard of Mr Miller?

W: No. Is he very famous?

M: He is the new hit on the Internet. He invites people to his farm to experience farming.

W: The idea sounds attractive to me.

M: It's attractive to many people in big cities. This year, 75 people helped with planting and 214 people helped with harvesting.

W: Were they paid for their work?

M: No. Not only did they do farm work for free, but they also bought 3,650 kilos of the organic rice harvested from Mr Miller's farm. They also paid for their food and accommodation.

(Text 8)

M: Do you know bees can communicate with one another?

W: Really? How?

M: They use body language to show which direction the food is in, how far away it is, and how much food is available.

W: No kidding...

M: Yeah, see that one there? See how she's going around and around in circles, like she's dancing? That means the food is nearby. If the food is farther away, the bee points toward it with her body.

W: How do you know so much about bees?

M: I studied biology in college and I think it is interesting to read books about insects.

(Text 9)

W: Well, I know the computing conference is for three days but actually I want to attend on Friday and Saturday only. Will that be any cheaper?

M: Let me have a look. Well, you could register for the two days separately, but that wouldn't actually save you very much as it still costs each day. In fact, if you could register for the three days, you also get an invitation to a free dinner on Saturday night, so that's probably the better option.

W: Right, I'll do that. How much will the fees be in that case?

M: It's $75.

W: All right. I'd like to register for the full three days. Now, can I pay that by credit card?

M: I'm afraid not. You'll have to send a cheque to us, or you can pay in cash at the conference office.

W: Fine. So it's probably the easiest if I pay by cheque. How about accommodation? I guess that's not included in the price?

M: No, I'm sorry, but there's a very reasonable guest house which is $25 per night. And I think that includes your breakfast. But If you're interested you'll need to book soon, because there's always a heavy demand.

W: OK. I'd book for 2 nights. Is it close to the conference center?

M: It'd be about a ten-minute walk away from here.

(Text 10)

M: Winter storms have brought heavy snow and record low temperatures in some areas. Recent snow showers blew in from the Gulf of Alaska and covered parts of Washington and Oregon, where state officials have declared an emergency. The Seattle area got up to 6 inches of snow. Its low of 20 degrees Fahrenheit on Sunday broke the previous low for the day set in 1948. Bellingham hit a low of 9—three degrees below the 1971 record for the day. Washington and Oregon reported about 5,000 houses without power on Monday. An early Tuesday report said more than 2,000 houses in Oregon still had no electricity. In Nevada, freezing temperatures and blinding snow caused traffic jams and forced Sierra Nevada highway passes to close. Heavy snow also blocked the state road connecting Tahoe City to ski resorts in Olympic Valley.

写作

第一节

One possible version:

Dear David,

I'm happy to tell you I won the first prize in our school English speech contest last Monday. Without your help, I wouldn't have made such great achievements in the contest. Since you're interested in Chinese culture, I'd like to invite you to enjoy an erhu performance.

The performance is scheduled to be held from 6 pm to 8 pm next Friday in our school's conference hall. I hope you will spare some time for the performance. Once you make up your mind, please tell me and I will prepare two tickets for us.

I'm looking forward to your reply.

Yours sincerely,

Li Hua

第二节

One possible version:

Allen tried his best to make it to the medical clinic. On the way to the medical clinic, Richard Allen tried not to panic, focusing his mind on each sharp turn. However, he felt he was losing consciousness gradually. Faced with such a bad condition, Allen was filled with anxiety and pain. Suddenly he remembered there was a gas station nearby. There someone may help him. Without hesitation, he spared no effort to get there. "Call medical clinic," he shouted, "Emergency..." Then he went into shock.

He woke up two days later. He found himself in hospital. The doctor told him he was so lucky and had a narrow escape after he was stung by wasps. The person at the gas station happened to study medicine before, so he applied timely first aid to Allen before the ambulance came. Allen recovered soon. Knowing the importance of first aid, he learned some knowledge about first aid, hoping one day what he learned could make a great difference to others.
