One possible version:

A True Role Model around Me

True role models are not always famous people. Sometimes, they are right beside us. For me,my classmate Li Ming is a true role model.

In my opinion, his kindness and determination make him someone worth learning from. He patiently explains difficult questions to classmates, even when he is busy with his own work.Besides, when he gets disappointing results, he never gives up. Instead, he learns from his mistakes and keeps trying. His actions teach me to care for others and face difficulties with courage.

In short, Li Ming inspires me to become a kinder and more determined person.

第二节 读后续写(满分 25 分)

One possible version

Just then, Mr. Wang's words echoed in her mind again. “Stay calm and check your steps instead of giving up.” Brushing sweat off her palms, she pulled herself together. She pushed aside her rising anxiety and reviewed her calculations line by line. Soon she spotted a tiny careless mistake in her figures. She corrected it quickly and got the right answer to Part Two. She tried her best to work on Part Three before the exam bell rang. She laid down her pen, a faint sense of well-earned accomplishment rising in her heart.

When the results came out the following week, Chen Xi was surprised to find her score had jumped*. She gained several points from the once-frightening final function problem. Mr. Wang called her over after class and offered sincere praise. He told her courage mattered more than a perfect answer. Chen Xi stared at her test paper and fell into quiet thought. She understood fear rather than lack of ability used to hold her back. She made up her mind to get out of her comfort zone. Afterwards, she would bravely meet hard math challenges instead of escaping from them.
