What are your feelings when in danger?

Fear?

The danger is threatening the comfort zone even the life.

Frustration?

Frustration is the feeling arising when expectations or desired outcomes are not met.

Helplessness?

This is a sign overwhelmed by the situation. The next step would be despair.

Struggle?

flee or adventure?
panic or stay calm?
being brave or coward?
self-rescue or rescue others?

What do you call those who risk their lives to save others in danger?

Zhong Nanshan, an 83-year-old doctor 1. who became a household name 17 years ago for “daring to speak” in the fight 2. against SARS, is the public image of China’s effort to control a new strain of coronavirus.

Despite his 3. advanced (advance) age, Zhong was appointed to lead the 4. investigation (investigate) into the new virus, which has rattled (使发狂) millions of Chinese who are traveling for the week-long Lunar New Year holiday. His announcement on Monday 5. that the virus could spread between humans ratcheted up (增加) the safety precaution about the outbreak, Ruthless virus brings out 6. warmth (warm) in humanity. More and more white-robed nurses and doctors are fighting the virus on the front line, 7. whose selfless devotion deserve our respect!

China has the confidence and the capacity 8. to win (win) this battle. The people's sense of 9. responsibility (responsible) to the country has been fully displayed in this joint fight against the outbreak. We believe care and compassion will not 10. be shadowed (shadow) by panic and fear.

The Chinese people, fighting united as one, will surely defeat the epidemic.

- The video shows Chinese doctors are doing everything in their power to help save lives and sacrificing themselves for the national interest.
- They deserve a lot more praise!
- They are real life superheroes putting themselves in danger to save someone.
- They raise up the Chinese nation !

When I am down and oh my soul so weary 每当我心情低落，我的灵魂如此疲惫

You Raise Me Up is a song originally composed by Irish-Norwegian duo Secret Garden. The music was written by Secret Garden's Rolf Løvland and the lyrics by Brendan Graham. The song has been recorded by more than a hundred other artists.

“你鼓舞了我”是爱尔兰和挪威的二人组合“秘密花园”原创的。谱曲是Rolf Lovland完成的，而Brendan Graham创作了歌词。这首歌被超过一百位的歌手翻唱过。

The song was made by and for Løvland himself and performed for the very first time at the funeral of Løvland's mother. Here he noted "there's something about the song people are embracing - which becomes emotionally strong. I believe people think of it as a song they use for their own purposes."

这首歌是Løvland为了自己而制作，并在他母亲的葬礼上首演。他说“这首歌里有一些东西是人们都想拥抱的 - 它使得人们从情感上更加强大。我相信每个人都可以从这首歌中找到自己的情感归属。”

There are always a group of people in our lives. That group, may not be your brothers and sisters, but share weal and woe just like brothers; That group, perhaps have no blood relationship with you, but willing to go through fire and water for you.

在我们的生命中总有一群人。那群人，或许不是你的兄弟姐妹，却胜似兄弟姐妹；那群人，或许和你没有血缘关系，却愿为你赴汤蹈火。

I glimpse eternity.

Leda woke, squinting at the bright light overhead. Someone was rubbing something cool on the back of her hand, but the slickness quickly turned to a jab of pain. She flinched and turned her head. A nurse was securing an IV into her hand with tape. An IV? She was in the hospital? Pain slithered between her temples, fogging her thoughts, and the bleach smell wafting off the sheets turned her stomach. The last thing she remembered was dropping Caren off at her house after the basketball game. Then, nothing.

丽达醒来了，眯着眼睛看着头顶上明亮的灯光。有人在她的手背上擦着什么凉快的东西，但那光滑很快就变成了一阵刺痛。她退缩了一下，转过头去。一位护士正在用胶布把静脉点滴固定在她的手上。静脉注射？她住院了？疼痛在她的太阳穴间蔓延，使她的思想一片混乱，从床单上飘来的漂白剂的气味使她作呕。她记得的最后一件事是看完篮球赛后把卡伦送到她家。然后，什么都不记得了。

A foul stench coated the hallway, and Cam was not the least bit surprised to smell it the strongest outside room 34. William Rand was a long term schizophrenic who was known for regurgitating his meds and tossing them away. He was also known for his habit of smearing feces across the safety glass in his door. Sure enough, William had decorated his window, this time adding a smiley face flourish. Cam's gag reflex kicked in and he rushed to the custodial room's sink. He'd had it with this place. Time to get a new job.

走廊里弥漫着一股恶臭，而小卡闻到34号房间外最强烈的恶臭时一点也不惊讶。威廉·兰德(William Rand)是一名长期患有精神分裂症的患者，人们都知道他会反刍自己的药物，然后把它们扔掉。他还有个习惯，就是把粪便抹在门上的安全玻璃上。果然，威廉装饰了他的窗户，这一次他在窗户上画了一个笑脸。小卡的呕吐反射开始起作用，他冲进了保管室的水池。他受够了这个地方。是时候找份新工作了。

While Mother was in with the doctor, I selected a magazine from the wall rack near reception but quickly found I couldn't concentrate. Who could in a place like this? I flipped pages to give my hands something to do, snatching glances at other patients occupying the blue plastic chairs. The woman with the headscarf and the man with the ball cap pulled low- -it was obvious why they were waiting to see this particular doctor. Other patients broke my heart though, like the little girl whose hands were clenched around a glossy picture book, the cover unopened, and the teenage boy who looked lost and vulnerable in clothes that billowed around his shrunken body. I blinked back tears. Cancer had a lot to answer for.

当母亲和医生在一起时，我从接待处附近的壁柜上拿了一本杂志，但很快发现我无法集中注意力。谁能在这样的地方？我翻着书页，让双手有事可做，不时瞥一眼坐在蓝色塑料椅上的其他病人。戴头巾的女人和戴球帽的男人都拉得很低——很明显他们在等着看这位特别的医生。还有一些病人伤透了我的心，比如那个小女孩，她的手紧握着一本光滑的图画书，封面没有打开，还有那个十几岁的男孩，衣服在他干瘪的身体周围空荡荡的，他看起来很失落，很脆弱。我忍住眼泪。癌症有很多原因。
