My senior high school life is almost over. Although looked forward to entering college, I can't help missing looking those good old days very much that I feel sad. I'm unwilling to say goodbye to everyone and everything I am familiar so with. However, I come to realize nature never stood still. Different seasons come and go. Plants and animals die and stands new one come to life. We, like everything in nature, has to adapt to the changes. Before knowing it, I am a kind of ones calm. Now I'd like to recall the most wonderful things what have happened, and accept happy whatever is to happen. After 去掉 a that happily
