第一节（共 10 个小题，每小题 2.5 分，满分 25 分）阅读下列短文，从每题所给的 A、B、C 和 D 四个选项中，选出最佳项，并在答题卡将该项涂黑。

The regular editor of the agricultural paper was going off for a holiday, and I took his place.

It was an easy job since I've been in the editorial business for fourteen years. I worked all week with untiring pleasure and waited a day to see whether my effort was going to attract any notice. As I went to the office in the morning, a group of men stood outside, watching me with interest, and I heard one or two of them say, "That's him!" I was naturally pleased.

After a while, one of the men entered my office and asked me, "Are you the new editor?"

I said I was.

" Have you ever edited an agricultural paper before?"

"No." " I said,"This is my first try."

"I'd like to read you this:"Turnips(大头菜) should never be pulled;it injures them.It is much better to send a boy up and let him shake the tree."

" Now,what do you think of that?"

" I think it is good.Every year millions and millions of turnips are damaged by being pulled.If they had sent a boy up to shake the tree....."

" Shake your grandmother!Turnips don't grow on trees!"

" Oh,they don't?Well,who said they did?The language was intended to be figurative(比喻的) 。 ”

Then this old gentleman tore his paper into pieces,and went out.

Pretty soon after this,the editor came in,looking sad and confused.

He said,"What put it into your head that you could edit a paper of this nature?You talk of the moulting (换羽毛) season for cows;and you say that clams(蛤蜊) will lie quiet if music were played to them.

Nonsense!Clams always lie quiet and they care nothing whatever about music.Ah,heavens and earth, friend!Why didn't you tell me you didn't know anything about agriculture?"

21.How did the author feel at the first sight of the men?

A.Angry B.Confused C.Happy D.Frightened

22.What can we infer about the author?

A.He was full of creative ideas.
B.He was a newcomer to the editing business.
C.He had no experience in editing agricultural papers.
D.He couldn't tell the difference between certain plants.

23.Why did the old gentleman read the article to the author?

A.To ask for the author's opinion.
B.To point out the author's mistake.
C.To find out if it was written by the author.
D.To discuss the use of language with the author.

The victims were carried in one by one,their paws burned and fur charred,suffering from heavy loss of water and fear.Their caretakers bandaged their wounds and laid them in baskets with the only thing that was familiar-the leaves of eucalyptus trees(桉树) 。

As destructive fires have burned more than 2 million acres in Australia,dozens of koalas have been rescued from burning trees and ashen ground."They are terrified."said Cheyne Flanagan,clinical director of the Koala Hospital in Port Macquarie.The only one in the world,koalas,unlike kangaroos,birds or snakes,do not flee from fires but instead climb trees to the top,where they can roll themselves up into a ball for protection and wait for the danger to pass.But during the destructive fires,such as those that have burned in recent weeks,the animals are far less likely to survive.Even if the fire itself does not reach the tree top,the animals may overheat and fall to the ground,where they can be burned to death.

While koalas have evolved(进化) to exist alongside wildfires,the animals are facing new threats not just from climate change but also from human development,which will impair their ability to survive fires.

" We have these unique animals not found anywhere else on this planet,and we're killing them, Flanagan said,"This is a big wake-up call."

24.What do we learn about koalas from this passage?

- A.They are good at climbing trees.
- B.Their population drops for illegal hunting.
- C.They are less adaptable than birds and snakes.
- D.They protect themselves from fires by remaining high up on the trees.

25.The underlined word"impair"in paragraph 3 is closest in meaning to

- A.shorten
- B.weaken
- C.strengthen
- D.sharpen

26.Where is the text probably from?

- A.A news report
- B.A textbook
- C.A journal
- D.A guidebook

The Notre Dame(巴黎圣母院) fire has been put out,but its spire and a large portion of its wooden roof have been damaged.The terrible destruction causes a sudden sharp pain to people around the world. " What a pity that we cannot see the damaged parts of the wonder anymore."

But the good news is that there is at least one way of seeing them,namely through a video game called Assassin's Creed:Unity.In this game,the player can travel to one city after another and enter the buildings exactly like what they are in reality,and see Notre Dame as it was before the fire.Further,with virtual(虚拟的) reality technology,which is already quite mature,one can even look around the undamaged Notre Dame as if it is still there.Maybe digital(数字的) technology could help to better protect architectural cultural heritage.

The idea of making digital models of ancient buildings to save their data dates back to the 1990s and the necessary technology has continued to advance since then.By scanning the ancient buildings with lasers(激光) , building 3D models with multiple images,as well as measuring everything precisely, engineers can make a copy as accurate as the real one.

As computers and smartphones are hugely popular,the digital model has great useful value.First,it allows tourists to feel the cultural relics without touching them.The virtual tour of Dunhuang Grottoes in Gansu Province is a good example of this as tourists can view the paintings without standing near them.Furthermore,it can make the digitized cultural relics more famous by spreading awareness about them via the Internet.In 2000,a virtual tour of the Great Wall became very popular at the Hannover World Expo, which increased the number of foreign tourists visiting the site in the following years.Above all,it preserves all the information of the cultural relics.

of course,however precise a model is,it is not the original.Maybe we will have better technologies in the future,but the digital technology offers a practical way to preserve architectural cultural heritage at the moment.

27.What can we see about Notre Dame in the game?

- A.The big fire
- B.Its wooden shape
- C.Its original look
- D.The damaged Notre Dame

28.What will engineers do to create a digital copy of the ancient buildings?

- A.Draw 3D models by hand
- B.Measure all the parts exactly
- C.Take apart the ancient buildings
- D.Scan the photos of the buildings

29.How does the author prove the digital copy has vital practical importance?

- A.By comparison
- B.By classification
- C.By listing data
- D.By giving examples

30.What is the author's attitude towards the present application of the technology?

- A.Supportive
- B.Satisfied
- C.Worried

D.Indifferent

第二节：续写（满分 25 分）

阅读下面短文，根据所给情节进行续写，使之构成一个完整的故事。

She got up early to be ready for the post. From the second floor flat she could see the postman when he came down the street, and the little boy, Johnnie, from ground floor brought up her letters on the rare occasions when anything came.

Today she was sure there would be something. Her daughter, Myra, wouldn't forget her birthday, even if Myra seldom wrote at other times. Of course, Myra was busy. The old lady was proud of Myra, who was Successful both in her company and family.

The old lady was eighty today. She had put on her best dress. Perhaps--perhaps Myra might come. After all, eighty was a special birthday.

Even If Myra did not come, she would send a present. The old lady was sure of that. Two spots of color brightened her cheeks. She was excited - like a child. She would enjoy her day.

Mrs. Morison upstairs had brought a card and a bunch of flowers to her. Mrs. Grant downstairs had made a cake, and in the afternoon she was going down there to tea. Johnnie had brought up with a packet of sweets, and said he wouldn't go out to play until the post had come. "I guess you'll get lots of presents." he said.

What would she like? A pair of comfortable shoes perhaps. Or a new coat. A coat would be lovely. Blue is such a pretty color. Or a table lamp. Or a book, a travel book, with pictures, or a little clock, with clear black numbers. So many lovely things.

注意：

1. 所续写短文的词数应为 150 左右；
2. 应使用 5 个以上短文中标有下划线的关键词语；
3. 续写部分分为两段，每段的开头语已为你写好；
4. 续写完成后，请用下划线标出你所使用的关键词语。

Paragraph 1:

She stood by the window, watching..

Paragraph 2:

Almost unwillingly, she tore the envelope open.
