Text 8 第11题

W: It sure has been a busy day at the office today so far. Have you had as much work as I have? I haven't had a minute to stop and think!

M: Oh, yes-same here. I've been getting call after call on my phone.(11) And the boss gave me tons of papers to go through.

W: Wow, that looks like a lot to do. I really need to work out a program. I have a lot of files on my desk. Hey, maybe we can go out after work and relax after this long day!(12)

M: That sounds great.(12) Do you want to go to the usual restaurant? Tonight is their dinner special, remember?

W: Sure, that's a great idea. Now I have to go to the filing room. And your phone's ringing again!

The man needs to answer phones and go through tons of papers while the woman needs to work out a program and have lots of files to deal with.

Text 9 第14、15题

W: I finally got my glasses.(14)I've been waiting four weeks.

M: That long ago? I thought we ordered them together just two weeks ago.

W: They were supposed to come a week ago,(14)but they didn't come on time.

M: Well, I guess Russia is a long way from here in America.(15)

W: Actually, they got held up in Canada. I don't know why they went through that country first

M: Were they really only$15?

W: Yes, and I got a pair of sunglasses with them for an extra $5.

M: That's so cheap! Are they of good quality?(16)

W: They work just fine.

M: But I'm not sure if they're safe. Did they use the kind of glass that doesn't break easily?

W: Who cares? I can just buy another pair if they break.

M: That's dangerous. But I must say, they look great.

W: Better than the ones I bought at the mall!

M: I can't believe my little sister found this company on the Internet...(17)

The man and the woman are in America. They ordered some glasses delivered from Russia. However, they got held up for some time in Canada. So the glasses supposed to arrive one week ago came late.

Text 10 第18、20题

Being overweight is more than a health condition; it can cause social problems for young people. Do schools know enough about helping these students? It can sometimes be hard for children to eat healthy food at the schools' lunches. Schools need to ask the parents what children with weight problems need.(18) Children who are overweight can also have problems making friends.(19) Even if they are very sociable, other children might make fun of them. Children can be confused when others are different from them. Children who are too heavy can often have problems when they start to grow older. Nobody is there to tell them what to eat and how much to exercise. This can be a problem, and parents need to educate their children about these dangers. Where can children with weight problems go if they need help? Experts might not be available everywhere, and doctors don't always have time. Sometimes the best place to get understanding is from other children with the same problems.(20)

To help students with weight problems, schools can ask their parents what their children need. And overweight students themselves can also talk to other children with the same problems.
